STATE HAS SOME NEW EVIDENCE

Brings Out That Many Shipments Were Reveived by Express by E. Casey and N. Casey.

SECOND TRIAL LIQUOR CASE

Supreme Court Decision Says Sentences Run Concurrently But Fines Are Accumulative.

CASEY FOUND GUILTY

Newton Casey was found guilty by the jury in the circuit court late this afternoon and fined $290 and sentenced to jail for 110 days. The jury was out about one hour in reaching a verdict. This fine and jail sentence is reduced over that of the jury in police court.

The case against Newton Casey, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, was heard today in the circuit court. The case was taken to the circuit court on an appeal from the mayor's court and because it was the first case of those appealed to be tried there considerable interest was shown.

Convictions in police court have been comparatively easy to secure here of late and because this case started there the interest centered in what a circuit court jury would do with Casey. The case was expectaed to go to the jury late this afternoon. The court room was crowded throughout the day.

The evidence was practically the same as that introduced in police court. The state introduced additional evidence through drivers and agents for local express companies. By their testimony the state tended to show that Casey received many shipments, supposed to be liquor and beer. Marion Finney, driver for the Wells-Fargo and American express companies, testified that he had delivered as manp as ten boxes to the Casey rooms since December. The state brought out that some of the packages were heavier than others. He was unable to tell the contents of the boxes as they were not labeled. Agents for the companies testified that the shipments came addressed to N. Casey and others to E. Casey.

Through the police the state showed that the traffic up and down the stairs to the Casey rooms over the Roth pool room was heavy. The traffic, it was brought out, was heavier on big days in Rushville. It was stated that more men went up and down the stairs on Saturdays than other days. The state tended to show that all this travel up and down stairs was not because of a barber ship located on the same floor as the barber shop has only one chair.

All of the police told oftheraidin which the barrel of beer and case of empty whiskey botles was fund. This is the raid on which the case is based. The testimony on this point was the same as in police court. Casey was found guilty in police court and fined 350 and given six months in jail.

Little difficulty was experienced in obtaining the jury. In the list of jurors selected to try Casey on this charge are several that tried him on the charge of associating last week. It will be recalled that he was fined $90 and sentenced to sixty days on this charge. The question came up this morning as to whether Casey would have to serve both jail sentences should one be imposed by the jury trying the case today.

The supreme court has held that

Powers of the Fairview Christian church.

STEVEN KELLEY'S FATHER EXPIRES

Michael E. Kelley, One Time a Resident of This City, Dies in Indianapolis.

HE LEFT HERE 18 YEARS AGO

Steven Kelley, 629 North Jackson street, received word this morning of the death of his father, Michael E. Kelley, in Indianapolis. Mr. Kelley had been in poor health for several months and because of his old age, little hopes for his recovery were given. He was eighty-five years old. Mr. Kelley was a former resident of this city, making his home for a number of years in a large house in East Fifth street, which is no longer standing. He left here about eighteen years ago, moving to Indianapolis. Besides a wife, he is survived by five children and several grandchildren. He died at four o'clock this morning. Burial will take place in Indianapolis.

VERNAL EQUINOX GETS THE BLAME

Snow Falls Today When Spring is in the Offing and Destroys All Hopes.

TO BE UNSETTLED TOMORROW

Most people were blaming the vernal equinox for the snow storm today, but again, some others were prone to view it as "downright cussedness" of the weather man to visit snow on a people that has been basking in the warm rays of an advanced spring sun and dreaming on the days when the leaves would begin to appear.

Next Sunday is the day for spring to enter officially, and it generally enters on a cold wave, a snow storm or something of the sort. This year it is getting a running start. The forecast today is for unsettled weather, with local snow flurries tomorrow.

Snow was in the air this morning but it did not begin to fall steadily, in large white flakes, until about two o'clock this afternoon. The snow melted just as soon as it struck the ground. Word from Greensburg today was that there was one-half inch of snow on the ground there.

William Emsweller and family have moved from Tenth and Harrison streets to his farm near New Salem.

COMMITTEES NAMED TODAY

Final Arrangements Made For Meeting of Sixth District Teachers Here Tomorrow.

MUCH INTEREST IN SESSIONS

L. N. Hines, Author of Teachers Pension Law, Writes That he Will Come Saturday.

Residents of Rushville responded splendidly, said Superintendent J. H. Scholl, to the request for accommodations for teachers who will attend the first meeting of the Sixth District Educational association which will open here Friday evening and continue until Saturday evening. Seventy-five offers have been received by the committee to care for visiting teachers.

Additional word was received today by Superintendent Scholl concerning delegations of teachers which were coming. The special committees which will have in charge the decoration, reception and refreshment features of the meeting were announced today.

A letter was received today asking that reservations be made for a party of Richmond teachers who will arrive tomororw afternoon in time for the first session. The first news received from the Superintendent J. T. Giles was in effect that the Richmond delegation would not come until Saturday morning.

Another letter was received today from Superintendent L. N. Hines of Crawfordsvilel assuringthe local arrangements committee that he would be here in time to address the teachers Saturday morning at 10:50 on the new teachers pension law. Superintendent Hines wrote and urged the passage of the teachers bill and is more thoroughly acquainted with it than any other person in Indiana. For this reason much interest attaches to his address because very little is known about the application of the law.

The chief address at the opening session Friday evening will b made by by Dr. W. W. Black of Indiana university. The meetings will all be held in the Graham high school building. The assembly will be used for the main meetings and the conference on handwriting. The conference on vocational guidance will be held in room No. 11.

The following committees were named today:

Reception—H. B. Wilson, chairman, Frank Forry, Miss Leta Denny, E. B. Marlatt, Miss Belle Gregg, Miss Carrie Kitchen, Miss Lois Fritter, Miss Pet Meredith, Miss Edith Caldwell, Virgil Binford, Miss Nelle Casady, Miss May Meredith, Miss Edith Hiner, Miss Belle Forsythe, Miss Kathryn Petry and J. S. Bean.

Decorating—Miss Henrietta Coleman, chairman, N. W. Coil, Miss Margaret Casady, Miss Pearl Applegate, Miss Georgia Morris, Miss Margaret Fleehart, Miss Elizabeth Flint and Mrs. Mary Wills Adams.

Refreshments—Miss Kate Dennis, chairman, Miss Genevieve Brown, R. W. Burns, Miss Elizabeth Waite, Miss Ellen Madden and Miss Pearl Kitchen.

HAULED TO JAIL.

Anthony was found at the Big Four depot where he was waiting for a train to Milroy. He was hauled to jail in the baggage wagon. A fine of one dollar and costs was assessed by Mayor Bebout. Anthony had been in Connersville.

HELD IN JAIL FOR FORGING CHECKS

Lon Flint Mays Blacksmith, Accused of Having Passed Bad Paper to Get $8

TAKEN ON BENCH WARRANT

Lon Flint, 22 years old, a blacksmith of Mays, is held in jail on a bench warrant charging forgery. He is alleged to have forged two checks one for $5 and the other for $3 on the Mays bank. Flint, it is understood, is ready to plead guilty.

He is a married man and has two children. For this reason the Mays bank, it is stated, will ask the court to be lenient. Flint was first arrested in the squire's court and bound over to the circuit court. When brought here the squire failed to send the warrant and a bench warrant was issued.

TENANT HOUSE IS BURNED

Dwelling on Sylvia Hodge Farm Near Homer is Destroyed.

A tenant house on the Sylvia Hodge farm, near Homer, was destroyed by fire last evening between six-thirty o'clock and seven o'clock. The house was occupied by Roscoe Headlee and family, and most of the household goods were taken out in time. The fire is believed to have started from a defective flue. The house was a small one containing only three rooms and the loss is not very great. The owner carried $75 insurance on the building.

CHINESE SITUATION LOOMS LARGE TODAY

China Already Applied to United States to Make Representations to Japan

ADMINISTRATION WATCHING

MAKES REQUEST OF JAPAN

(By United Press.)

Washington, March 18—The United States has asked Japan to respect China's integrity, it was learned officially today, though neither President Wilson or Secretary Bryan would admit just what form the representations took. They agreed, however, that the appeal to Japan was in the friendliest language and that the mikado's government would make material modification in its demands.

(By United Press.)

Washington, March 18.—The Chinese situation today loomed up as a greater menace to American foreign relations than European war conditions though officials would not talk.

The United States is looked on by China as its "next friend." China has applied to this country to force Japan to relinquish her designs on China's territorial integrity. The United States has already unofficially explained to Japan that any attempt to dominate China would be unfriendly. Whether this government has joined England and Russia in a formal protest as Pekin advices indicate is not known. Secretary Bryan said the administration was watching developments but would not say whether there had been distinct representations made.

Japanese embassy officials, while refusing to make any authoritative statement, insisted that much of the trouble was being stirred up by German agents in China.

SALOON MAN'S WIFE HELPED

Mrs. Frank Hess Testifies She Wrote 55 False Registration Blanks in Her Kitchen.

TERRE HAUTE CASE GOES ON

As Fast as She Could Write Them, She Says, Her Husband Passed Them Out to Repeaters.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—When Jack Hines, Democratic boss and saloon keeper in the Terre Haute red light district, the sixth ward, was placed on the stand by District Attorney Daily today in the government's first investigation of a local election under the criminal clause of the criminal code, he admitted that he was in turn was bossed by Mayor Donn M. Roberts, the chief defendant.

"His men told me that if I did not help to get out 300 false votes on election day he would put me out of business," said Hines. After I confessed to the grand jury I sold my saloon."

"How long have you done Donn Roberts' dirty work?" asked District Attorney Dailey.

"About six years," said Hines.

On cross examination Attorney A. O. Stanley brought out that Hines was arrested and fined for associating with prostitutes. Dailey then questioned the witness.

"The next time you were arrested was for association with Mayor Donn M. Roberts was it not?" he asked.

Hines agreed that it was.

Election corruption evidence which had been buried in the ground under a shed of the Frank Hess west end saloon was produced today by Mrs. Clara Hess, wife of Defendant Hess, who formerly was mayor Donn M. Roberts' most powerful aid in the tenderloin.

Mrs. Hess identified forty-five false registration applications which she made out on the dining room table in her own kitchen adjoining the saloon.

She said she helped her husband make out the false papers after Chief Holler had brought down about two hundred cards bearing names which Holler claimed Roberts said must be written on application blanks. She said her husband's saloon was the headquarters for the repeaters in the west end and that she saw her husband give repeaters false applications.

As soon as she made out an application, she said, her husband would give it to a repeater.

PAIGE

"A New Standard of Value and Quality"

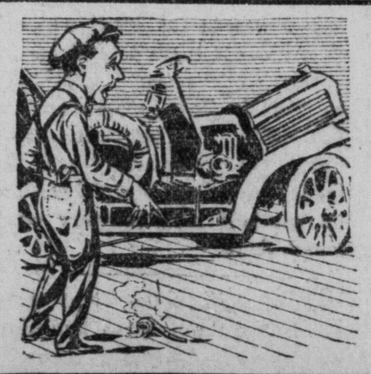

The last automobile show of the season is now over. If you attended the Indianapolis show, we know that you were impressed with the beauty, style and quality of the PAIGE four and six cylinder car. You must not judge then by the price at which they sell, for the new price of $1075 for the four and $1395 for the six establishes a new standard of value in automobiles. If you will compare them point by point and feature by feature with cars selling at $200 to $300 more, we believe as a discriminating purchaser you will select the PAIGE. Correct design and high quality of materials are two essentials which make for durability, comfort and economy of maintenance. In each of these essentials the PAIGE car excels. With heat treated chrome nickle-steel axles and gears, wonderfully quiet and powerful motors, supplemented with Bosch high tension magneto ignition and cooled by fan, circulating pump and genuine Mayo cellular radiators, large Gray and Davis two unit starting and lighting system, the PAIGE car compares better with machines selling for a much higher price. No other construction is better than this, no matter what the price, and no other car is so well built to withstand hard service. Its chief designer, Mr. A. Baechle is an expert on both French and American designs, and he knew how to choose just the right quantity of the right kind of material for each component part to give its greatest strength and stamina, and when the machine is old and the real test comes, then the PAIGE shows its marked superiority. These are some of the reasons why a motor-wise public purchased a million dollars worth of PAIGE cars during the New York and Chicago shows, and why you should see this unusual car at the UWANTA GARAGE or call phone 1728 and arrange for a demonstration.

rested last night by the city police were Wes Godfrey, confessed conspirator in the government election conspiracy case involving Terre Haute, and Sid Onyette, a government witness. They were slated under assumed names.

Storen began an investigation. He tried to find out who is selling liquor to government witnesses. Godfrey is one of the most valuable witnesses the government has. Following close on the spectacle presented by George Kintz, government witnesses, who took the stand while intoxicated, the situation is regarded as serious by the government.

Jack Hines, former powerful political boss of the sixth ward the center of the red light district, resumed the stand today. He testified late yesterday that his saloon was in a building owned by Mrs. Donn M. Roberts, wife of the mayor. Hines testified that about eighteen or twenty negroes live in Precinct A of the Sixth Ward, and that the election returns show that between 250 and 300 negroes were voted.

Because he refused to contribute to the Democratic campaign fund at the request of the Terre Haute police, his saloon was closed on election day, according to the testimony of August Bakemeyer, a former Terre Haute saloon keeper, while other liquor dealers have testified that their places were allowed to run.

Bakemeyer said he was called to police headquarters the night before election and asked if he wanted to contribute to the fund, and he told John F. Nugent, assistant chief of police, that he did not want to make any contribution, and it was at that time he received instructions to remain closed the next day, the witness testified.

"The night before the last election Ed Holler, the chief of police called me on the telephone and asked me to came to headquarters at 7 o'clock that night," Bakemeyer testified. "I found Nugent at headquarters and he told me to keep my place closed tight the next day and to get out and hustle to get the voters to the polls.

"Just as I was going out Nugent called me back and said: 'Do you feel like you want to contribute to the campaign fund?' and I said 'no.' After the election I sold my place."

"Why did you decide to get out of the saloon business?" asked District Attorney Dailey.

"Because I had a bad policeman," the witness replied.

He said the police on the beat gave him unusual orders concerning the hours he was to remain open. Bakemeyer said he never had contributed to a campaign fund and that he had endeavored to conduct his saloon according to law.

JOHN HERRON SUCCUMBS

Aged Resident of Raleigh Passes Away After Short Illness.

John Herron, 89 years old, a well known resident of Raleigh died at his home there this morning shortly before five o'clock. His wife died about 8 years ago and there is no immediate relatives. The funeral services will be conducted Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at the Raleigh Christian church.

ANOTHER FALSE ALARM.

The fire department was called to box 36, corner of Second and Washington street last night at ten o'clock, but it proved a false alarm. The number of false alarms have increased of late and the police promise to make an example of someone if it continues.

Mahoning Council will not have work tomorrow night on account of the death of Samuel Gallimore. The order however will meet at the regular time.

jail sentences run concurrently and if he drew a jail sentence today he would immediately begin serving. Thus one day in jail can be applied to both jail sentences, and the one with the longer term will hold him in jail. The jail sentences are not accumulative but the fines are, according to decisions of the higher court.

The jury trying the case was composed of the following: Charles McBride, William S. Newhouse, A. M. Ellison, Conrad Posz, John J. Conoway, Lon Ellison, A. N. Williams, D. Z. Williams, Clarence Daubenspeck, James Smith, William M. Bosley and Peter S. Hollowell.

Reports today from Anderson were that the Princess theater orchestra made a big hit at the St. Patrick's day dance last night with its music. The orchestra was augmented by a trombone player and another saxaphone player from Anderson and the result was that the crowd of fifty-five couples could not get enough of the music. Dode Fitzgerald, a dancing master, who gave the dance, told the local orchestra that he would use them elsewhere for his dances. He has classes in several northern Indiana cities.

A Merchants Style Show.

Newcastle merchants are going to hold a style show in April. This is significant. t means a united effort on the part of the retailers to draw the attention of the people to the town of Newcastle as a whole and not to any individual merchant. It serves to make a better and broader spirit among the merchants and brings about better feeling.

Merchants here have privately discussed such an attempt but they have never taken the steps necessary to consummate such a plan. Merchants have read magazine articles about wide-awake towns which had combined in staging one mammouth style show that attracts attention generally. It is a great advertisement for any city.

Newcastle is in earnest. The Newcastle Courier says the purpose of the show is to have every merchant in the city arrange attractive displays in their show windows and on the floors of the stores at the same time. The latest creations in dresses, clothing, hats, haberdashery, shoes, furniture, millinery, and in fact every thing handled by local retail merchants, will be shown. Groceries will have their new produce on hand, the bakers will make an extra effort for a good showing, the druggists will display certain lines and in fact every merchant and retailer in the city will put on "style" for the show which will be the most extensive ever held in this or surrounding cities. Extra efforts will be made to get the country trade into this city.

To further this purpose and to talk the matter over every retailer in the city is invited to attend a business men's lunch at the Bundy hotel Friday evening of this week at 6:30. Ot J. Holloway and Lawrence Clift have been appointed on the "seeing" committee and it is their desire to "see" every retailer in the city to invite him to be present at the lunch. Every retailer is invited and if by chance any one is overlooked he is asked to call either Holloway or Clift who will reserve a plate for him. It is hoped that every one who is going to attend will not fail to notify the committee as it is in this way that the number of plates can be ordered. There will be speeches by some retailers but these speeches will not be "experience" talks, they will be right to the point.

Game, Stock and Citizens

The epidemic of the foot-and-mouth disease and its effect on the packing industry and the stock yards of Chicago have been commented on widely in the daily press from various points of view. One of the most illuminating comments appears in a recent issue of the Chicago Journal under the heading "Live Stock Versus Quail." Taking the best available estimates of the amount of live stock contained in the state and figuring on an average value of horses at $140 a head, milk cows at $65, other cows at $50, swine at $15, sheep at $6, and mules at $150 (minimum valuations, as most will admit) the Journal says the total value of live stock in Illinois would be $435,276,000, for the protection of which the state legislature appropriated for the current year a total of $37,340. By way of comparison the Journal quotes the appropriation for the protection of fish and game for the same time, which amounts to $151,600. The Journal property characterizes such a situation as "intolerable." It says "To spend four times as much money protecting quail, ducks and prairie chickens as we spend in caring for one of the basic industries of the state is sheer communal lunacy." This is true. The farmers and business men of Illinois should see to it that every cent that is necessary to protect the live stock of the state is provided, no matter what economies may be necessary in other directions. But, asks The Journal of the American Medical Association, if such appropriations are justified for the protection of the lives and health of animals, how much should be appropriated to protect the lives and health of the men, women and children of the state? Certainly more than for fish game, and live stock. Yet the appropriation for the protection of the 5,638,591 men, women and children in the state was for 1914 only $120,000, $30,000 less than was appropriated for the protection of fish and game. Are the lives of its citizens of less value to Illinois than the preservation of its quail and bass?

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

National Finances

(Kokomo Tribune)

The general fund of the United States treasury has dwindled to approximately forty million dollars. In the years of Republican rule fifty millions of available cash was regarded as the danger line. The available cash in the general fund is now ten millions below the level. How to replenish this fund is the problem which is now puzzling the administration treasury officials. The general belief in financial circles is that this can be accomplished in only one way, by the issuing of bonds, and it is confidently predicted that this dreaded eventuality can be postponed not more than two months at the farthest. And so it is likely that within sixty days this administration, like that of Grover Cleveland's, its last predecessor of like political faith, will be selling bonds to get the money needed to run the government. The prediction is that the sale will be that if the Panama Canal bonds. Of the Panama Canal bonds authorized by congress $240,569,000 remain unissued, more than sufficient to provide for any emergency that might arise before congress convenes again. The rate at which the outgo of the treasury exceeds the income may be gathered from the records for the year. The excess of disbursements for the fiscal year 1915 up to Friday night was $105,756,532. On the same date last year it was $49,125,258. These totals include expenditures for the Panama Canal. In the meantime the rate of outgo has increased and the rate of income is not keeping pace with it.

A Cloud on the Political Horizon

May Develop into a Storm and Prove Disastrous to Party in Power in the Next Presidential Election

[By J. Feudner.]

A new movement is under way in the United States which may possibly have quite a bearing on the political situation in the next presidential campaign. This movement is the organization of "hyphenated" Americans. In recent issues of the American press and article went the rounds which insinuated that the "hyphenated" Americans (meaning those who did not have a pro-English tendency), were disloyal to the land of their adoption. This aroused great indignation among those thus accused.

Here in Denver a mass meeting was held recently to protest against this insinuation, and also to protest against the "one-sided" neutrality of the Wilson administration, and strong resolutions were pased. I understand that such meetings are being held all over the United States and a new party is being organized under title of "American Independence Union" or "Neutrality League." This organization demands that the constitution of the United States be upheld; that an American cable and an independent news service be established; that there shall be a "free and open sea" for our commerce and unrestricted traffic in non-contraband goods, as defined by the international law; that the establishment of an American merchant marine be encouraged; that the export of arms and ammunition to the belligerents in Europe be prohibited.

In this connection it may be well to relate two cases. A Yale student by the name of Lewellyn (not a German name by any means), who enlisted in the German army, was wounded in France. He was decorated with the iron cross, and they took two bullets out of his flesh that had been manufactured in Connecticut. An American of old Yankee stock, who attended the meeting of the American Independence Union, told of a letter he had received from his sister who had married in Germany and had three sons at the front. One was killed by an American bullet, and what she wrote her brother about her native country would bring the blush of shame on patriotic American citizens.

As to the insinuation that "hyphenated" Americans were not loyal to this country, it is only necessary to study history and to look around and observe. I speak for those of German blood and descend. Past experience has shown that there are no more loyal, patriotic and useful citizens than the Germans. And those that come from Germany usually become naturalized American citizens as soon as the law permits them to become such. On the other hand, it is a well established fact that of all the various foreigners coming to the United States, the Englishman is the last to become a naturalized American citizen. Here in Denver is a case which is the limit. A clergyman of a church here in Denver, is so staunchily English that he would not even permit his children to be born here in the United States. Whenever a visit from the stork was expected, he sent his wife to England so that the children should be born English subjects. He has lived here for a good many years and is perfectly willing to pocket the American dollar, but as to the citizenship—"nix." This case is certainly the very limit.

Another "hyphenated" American is being heard from, namely the Irish American. His sympathy is by no means pro-English. Last Sunday I attended a "Robert Emmett" anniversary meeting in the Knights of Columbus hall in Denver. The invitation was sent out that all who wanted to hear the truth about England should attend the meeting. The program consisted of Irish songs and music and addresses by prominent Irish speakers. Strong resolutions were passed to the effect that the Irish people should co-operate with England's enemies in order to gain Ireland's freedom. Prominent Irishmen here in Denver assisted in the organization of the Neutrality League, which is being freely joined by Irish-Americans.

It is claimed that the spirit of these organizations is already making itself felt, as evidenced by the recent Chicago primary election, in which Sweitzer was nominated for mayor over Carter Harrison, a popular Democrat, by 75,000 majority. Harrison had the support of the Wilson administration, while Sweitzer had the support of thousands of men and women, who, although Democrats, are thoroughly out of harmony with the administration in its attitude on neutrality.

The New York American of February 26th comments editorially on the Chicago primary, and hints at the cause of Harrison defeat as follows:

"A friend of the triumphant Sweitzer declares that it was a triumph of the German-American element—a sort of first fruit of the Hon. Richard Bartholdt's proposition to make a domestic political party out of an international issue."

The importance of the new movement in our national life is duly recognized by Leslie's Weekly, which declares in an editorial:

"The new pro-German political party representing from eight to ten million persons of German birth and descent in the United States, must have a decided sentimental influence in the next Presidential campaign if it maintains its purpose. Its practical result must await the count of the ballots. The fact that in Passaic, N. J., the German element has already organized to take an active part in local politics indicates the strength of the movement.

"The success with which certain leaders of the Labor and Prohibition parties have carried on their political propaganda following the success, in other years, of the Granger, the Populist, Greenback, Know-nothing and Anti-Masonic movements, has no doubt, stimulated the German element to take decisive action in the belief that only in this way can its influence be made effective. If this movement goes on, and if the war abroad should be prolonged for another year, we shall find both the great political parties bidding for the German vote, and as this will surpass in numbers that of the so-called Labor vote and perhaps equal the Prohibition vote, the political situation promises to become interesting.

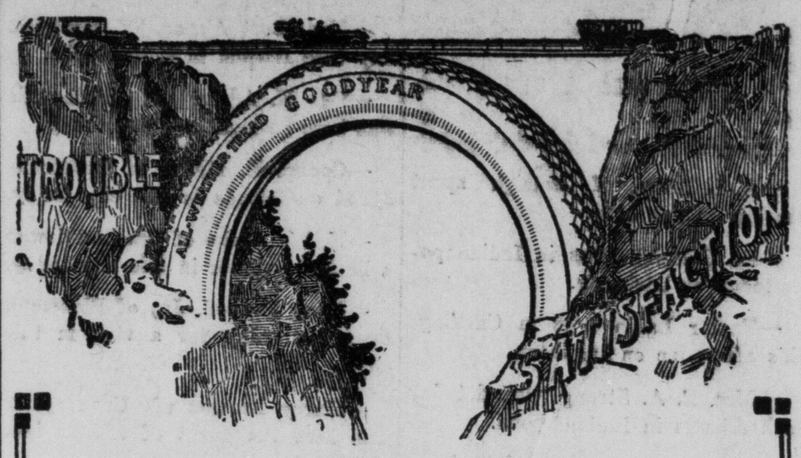

"The advent of a well-organized German party in American politics, with its demand that we shut off supplies from all of the belligerents, Great Britian included, supported as this party would be by an influential German press, would complicate the Presidential canvass and put a damper on the aspirations of some of the candidates now in sight. If to the anti-British feeling of the Germans we add the anti-British feeling among the strong Irish element, and if we consider the inroads on both political parties the Prohibitionists are making, we shall find something to take the place of the "Progressive" break that destroyed Republican prospects in the last Presidential campaign.

"A year hence the National Committees will name the time and place for the holding of the respective Presidential conventions, and fifteen months from this time the next Presidential campaign will open with all the candidates in the field. It is obvious that the new factor now looming up must cause greater anxiety to the party in power than to the one that seeks to regain control."

Acts of Recent Legislature Are Explained by Expert, John A. Lapp

(This is the fourth of a series of articles prepared for the United Press by John A. Lapp director of the Bureau of Legislative Information, explaining the new state laws. Editor.)

Trading Stamps

The bill regulating and licensing the handling of trading stamps became a law without the governor's signature and will go into effect when the acts are published. This law is rather a drastic regulation of the trading stamp business. It required that every person selling or furnishing trading stamps for use in the sale of goods or merchandise shall take out a license in each county where the trading stamps are sold and for each and every store or place consumer or dealer.

The license fee required is $1,000.00 which is paid into the county treasury and entitles the holder of the license to sell or furnish trading stamps for a period of one year. The licenses good at the location or place of business mentioned in it and business cannot be transacted elsewhere. No one may furnish or sell to any person any trading stamps for use in any other county than the one in which the license was taken out. This provision makes it necessary therefore that a separate license be taken out in each county in which the person desires to do business.

If any person violates the act he maybe fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars and imprisoned for a period not exceeding one year.

Prior to the passage of this act, trading stamps were regulated by an act of the legislature of 1913, which required that the redeemable value of trading stamps be stamped upon their face and that they must be redeemed at the value, when presented in an amount not less than five cents. The law of 1913 also prohibited a person selling any stamps without the consent of the person originally issuing them and responsible for their redeption.

The new law is drastic in its provisions inasmuch as it places the license fee so high as practically to prevent the business from being carried on. Similar laws enacted in half a dozen other states in the last ten years have been declared to be unconstitutional, and if the same reasoning were followed in Indiana, the new act could hardly stand the test of the courts.

RICHMOND WILL ENTER LEAGUE

Directors Decide on This Course and Meeting Will be Held There Sunday For Organization.

LOOKS LIKE SUCCESS NOW

Rushville Asked to Send Representative—Connersville and Newcastle to be Represented.

The Richmond ball club at a meeting last night decided to enter the proposed Sunday league, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made. With Richmond's favorable decision the league now look to be a sure go and a meeting will be held there Sunday to perfect the plans.

L. M. Shaw, secretary of the Richmond club, sent word this morning to all the cities interested in the league asking them to be represented at a meeting to be held there Sunday. The Richmond directors decided that now was the time to form the organization and that the sooner the meeting was held the better. A meeting of the K. I. O. association is scheduled for Dayton, Ohio, Sunday but the Richmond club officials believed that the formation of the league was more important and if the other cities were in earnest regarding the league that the meeting should go ahead for Sunday.

Jack Remington, of Connersville, and Tommy Ritter, of Newcastle, have promised to attend and as Rushville is anxious to see the league go through, the secretary and possibly some other officials will attend the meeting. A stockholders meeting is scheduled for here Sunday afternoon but as the Richmond meeting is of much more importance as the success of the formation of the league depends on the meeting, several of the men here will probably attend.

The Richmond club was the only one of the home teams that was doubtful about entering the league. The Richmond team will probably make some demands of the other teams and this is to be expected as Richmond is by far the largest city in the proposed league and should draw a larger attendance.

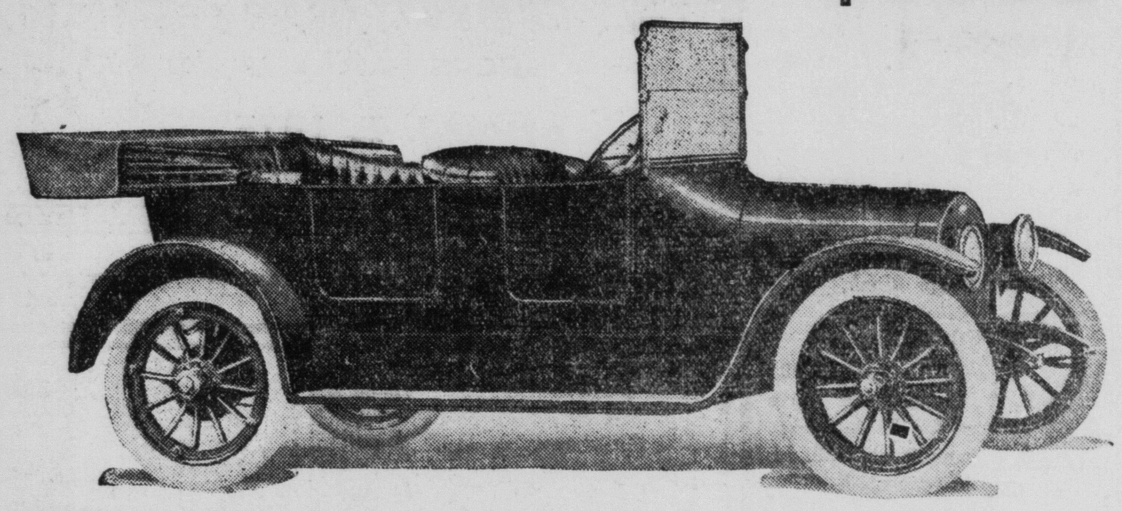

The fans here are highly in favor of the league and the inter-city rivalry should make the league a success. At the meeting Sunday officers will be named and a committee appointed to draft a schedule. This meeting will be the most important baseball meeting held in this section and it is expected to put the league on some working basis and go ahead for the season.

BALTIMORE IS AFTER PENNANT

Fans Expect Fed Team With Clear Field to Give Other Teams in League a Hot Fight

FINISHED WELL LAST YEAR

Knabe Has Steady Pitching Staff Headed by Chief Bender. Infield Considered Good

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Baltimore, Mar. 18.—Baltimore is looking for her Federals to show the rest of Jim Gilmore's teams something this season. They finished well up in the race last year and now the fans are clamoring for a pennant winner. And on paper it seems they stand a very good chance of having their clamorings satisfied. Otto Knabe's crew is looking mighty sweet.

The Baltimore pitchers stack up favorably with any in the league, barnone, and a whole lot better than some. The infield last season was easily one of the best, if not the best in the league, and it will hold its own in the coming pennant fight unless hard luck overtakes it. Otto Knabe is the pivot of the works at second, and he has an able lieutenant in thei nimitable Mickey Doolan on his right. The pair has stood the acid test time and again in the old Philadelphia days and there isn't a team in any league, with the possible exception of Evers and Maranville that has anything on them.

Big Harry Swansina on first showed what he was worth last season. He is a fast, but withal steady man on the first corner and can pickle the pill with steadiness. Jimmy Walsh, who played third bag last season, may have to battle to retain his berth as a regular. Guy Zinn is back on the job, besides Kirkpatrick, and either can be expected to put up a battle. Zinn, it will be remembered, broke his leg early in the season while training, and was out all year. He was counted a nifty third baseman when he came to the Feds from the International League. The Diamond Backs look awfully good in the infield.

Knabe has a steady pitching staff, rather than a flashy one. Chief Bender is going to add a lot of strength to the corps despite vociferous outbursts from Ben Johnson that the old chief is through. Last season was the best the Indian ever had, and if he is through, then there are a lot of hurlers holding down berths in the other two leagues who would do well to get into like condition. Any man that can win 17 and lose only 3 games in the American League looks pretty good. Backing up the Chief are Wilhelm, Suggs, Quinn, Conley, Bailey, Smith and Yount. The first three are well known; all were with the club last season and are steady rather than brilliant. Smith flopped around so much between Baltimore and Montreal last season that he is rather an unknown quantity. Bailey and Conley did good work last season, especially towards the latter part. Yount is as yet unproven.

The veteran Jacklitsch will, it is presumed, bear the brunt of the catching as he did last season. He had an able understudy in Russell.

"Hack" Simons and Johnny Duncan are a pair of heavy hitting outfielders, besides being fair infielders. Myer will have one patch, probably although it is possible Knabe may shift Kirkpatrick to the outfield.

The Feds are not going to have any opposition here this season and will have the solid support of the fans. Jack Dunn took his International Birds and went to Richmond. Baltimore believes it is a major league town and the Feds are the nearest thing to a major league it has since the days of the famous old Orioles.

Solid support is going to do a lot in keeping the players pepped up. Anyway, Baltimore is pretty well satisfied with the way things are shaping up.

BODY HANGS ON BARBED WIRE

For Two Months it Sags Between Two Contending Armies and Neither Can Reach it.

TO PERFORM BURIAL RITES

Living Check to Jowl With Dead Men is Part of Trench Life and That is Unavoidable

BY PHIL RADER
(Written for United Press.)

(Copyrighted 1915 by United Press)

London, March 1.—There's a German's body hanging from the barbed wire entanglements in front of the French trenches, which I have just left. For two months this body has been part of my little outlook on the world. There's a pair of nippers in the rotting hands. For some weeks the back was arched upward but recently it has begun to sag. The clothes flap more and more wildly each day as the body slowly shrivels. Nobody from either side has been able to get to that body to bury it. It is buried there in the air on the barbed wire and it will be gradually shot away.

Living cheek to jowl with dead men; that's the thing that turns you to a beast, but it's a part of trench life that is unavoidable. The first thing that shocks you is to discover that, after a time you are able to watch men writhing in pain with perfect equanimity. My first experience in this happened one day when a young Englishmen in my squad, named Samuel, tried to take a short cut to the rear, and instead of following the maze of trenches, got out into the open right in front of our trench. A German bullet passed through his lungs and we saw him topple only fifteen feet away from us. He writhed and moaned, but our officers wouldn't let us try to get him. The Germans didn't shoot at him any more because they knew they had "landed" him. Our Lieutenant sent to another part of the trenches for a Red Cross man, who came, after about an hour. This Red Cross doctor was a young Swiss named Scheer. He climbed right out of the trench and started towards the writhing figure of Samuels but a bullet passed through his head, and, after flopping about a minute or two Scheer's body stiffened and we could see he was dead. This was 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Whenever we tried to get out to help Samuels the Germans turned a terrific fire our way and we could even hear Samuels groaning. We couldn't get to him. It was not until dark that we could do anything. Then Victor Chapman, of New York, a Harvard man, who was studying architecture in Paris when the war broke out, made a lasso with a piece or rope and before long, he had dragged both bodies into the trench. Samuels was dead.

Experience like this hardened us and finally we got to the place where if a man was killed or wounded, he was blamed for carelessness. When Visconcelles, a merchant of Paris was killed with a rifle bullet through his head while he was peeping about the trench. Lieutenant Francis who conducted the funeral ceremony, said to us, as we stood over the grave:

"This is a lesson for you young men to take to heart. You must not be careless." Think of that as part of a funeral service.'

Most of the divisions of infantrymen who spent 5-day watches in the trenches during the forty-seven consecutive days that I was there with the machine gun squad, buried their dead right in the trenches. Sometimes they scooped out a grave in the side of the trench. Or sometimes they would dig a grave in the floor of the trench. They would not know of course, where other divisions had buried THEIR dead, so it was no uncommon thing to come across a rotting body. Then that part of the trench would be polluted for days until the train had washed away the last traces of the unspeakable mess.

There you are, among the dead. No cave man ever lived so terribly as you do; at least he buried his dead at a distant point moved away from the grave, but we are prisoners with our dead, sleeping, as it were, alongside them, as much prisoners as they. You get to feel that the only difference between yourself and a dead man is that your little bullet hasn't found you yet.

Looking death in the face in this way, a strange custom arose up among men in trenches. There was a Greek in our trench who was a fatalist. He used to say. "I know I'll get it some of these days when my time comes." Now the minute you hear a soldier talking that way you know he will get it. The trench is no place for a fatalist and a fatalist in my experience is not a good soldier, because he will grow impatient over the delay in the coming of death and will, at last, take foolish chances, that no sane man would take. This Greek had a very beautiful knife and all of the men in the trench had their eye on it for in all the trenches it is the custom for the men of a division to divide among themselves all of the belongings of a dead man which will be of use in the trenches. When the little Greek was finally shot through the brain one day, there was a dignified rush for the knife, and we found it was missing. Somebody had stolen it from him, it appears, before he was dead. I had a pair of field glasses which were very expensive and more than one man asked me to promise him that when I was killed the glasses would go to him. Every valuable possession of every man in the trench that can be legitimately claimed for trench service is marked by his comrades. It's just a cold-blooded custom that has grown out of the cold blooded and close acquaintance with death.

If you think that heroism and fine ideals grow in the trenches you are wrong. The life is too beastlike for such human things.

HALL CROWDED FOR ST. PATRICK'S PLAY

"Shaun Aroon" is Produced by Dramatic Club of St. Mary's Parish Wednesday Night.

SCENES LAID IN IRELAND

The production of the comedy-drama, "Shaun Aroon," by the dramatic club of St. Mary's parish at the church hall last night, furnished many laughs for the large crowd that packed the building for the play. The scenes were laid in county Mayo, Ireland, and one of them was in the Shamrock hotel in county Mayo. The play was given in celebration of St. Patrick's day.

Thomas S. Cauley had the stellar part, that of Shaun Aroon, and he essayed the role in fine style. The other parts were well taken and the play was today conceeded to be among the best ever presented by the dramatic society. The proceeds will remain in the treasury of the dramatic club to stage other productions.

Other parts in the play were taken by the following:

SEED OF LEGUME CROPS SELLING

Unpredented Demand For Clover Seed and Falling Off of Timothy Seed Demand Reported.

THERE'S A REASON FOR IT

Unprecedented sales of cloverseed and seed of all other legumes have been reported this year. There has also been a marked falling off in the demand for timothy seed, indicating that farmers are beginning to realize that closer is more valuable as hay, both from a feeding standpoint, and as a beneficial adjunct to soil building.

The bulk of legume seeds sold has been red clover, although there has also been a large demand for Big English clover. The demand for alsike has been curtailed by the fact that it has been very hard for dealers to get seed of good quality.

Early demands for alfalfa seed indicate that the acreage in Rush county will be larger this year.

With the exception of the alsike clover seed, prices are no higher than a year ago, and in most cases rule slightly lower. The quality of alfalfa and red clover seed is unusually good.

GERMAN TOURISTS ARE LEAVING ITALY

Midnight Conference Also Feature in Crisis That May Plunge Italy Into War

DENIAL AT THE EMBASSY

(By United Press.)

Rome, March 18.—Departure of a large number of German tourists for their homes and an important conference of government officials were the outstanding features today in the situation that threatened to plunge Italy into war.

At the German embassy a report that the leaving of the tourists was advised by attaches was specifically denied. Embassy officials said some of the Germans sojourning in Italy for the winter were returning to their homes because spring was approaching and that others unquestionably were influenced by the belligerent attitude of some of the Italian people.

INVESTIGATING BEAGLE MURDER

Decatur County Grand Jury Probing Shooting in Which Frank Beagle Was Killed.

WIDOW GIVES TESTIMONY

The Decatur county grand jury is investigating the murder of Frank Beagle of near Clarksburg, who was shot in Greensburg one Saturday night about a month ago by Sam Coulter. Beagle died a few days after the shooting.

The Greensburg Review says that yesterday Beagle's widow was called and Morton Beagle, a brother of the deceased was examined. John Greer on whose place Beagle was employed, was also called to testify this morning. That the work of the grand jury is far reaching is evidenced in the talk that some of Beagle's relatives outside of the county will be called into the case. Practically the entire neighborhood, where he lived, has been summoned for the investigation and his relatives in other parts of the county are being called.

It was rumored today that a great deal of difficulty was being experienced in locating one witness, who is said to know much about the shooting affair, in which Beagle was fatally injured.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Baptist church will give an exchange, Saturday, March 20th, in the room, formerly occupied by the Vigran Store, in West Second street. 3t3.

Washington Made Liquors

George Washington was one of the early American manufacturers of liquors, having made both fermented and distilled beverages on his plantation, Mt. Vernon.

Paul Leicester Ford, in his book, "The True George Washington," tells how "in 1798 the profit was 344 pounds, twelve shillings and three-quarter pence.

Washington also realized the value of the brewing industry to agriculture.

Writing to Arthur Young of England, 1791, he said, "I have, myself, raised hops. A brewer told me he had bought the crop of five-eighths acre of hops which turned out 1200 pounds."

Sulky Plows

I will sell on September 1916, time Sulky and Walking Plows.

These are the best on the market. The reason why I am selling them on long time is that one order from the factory and one from Indianapolis were both shipped in—this is the reason.

The Sulky is what the farmer has been looking for. This is the greatest plow on earth today. Sam Young says it will plow in any kind of dirt. Sam knows a good plow as he has lived on a farm all his life. I don't think Sam knows a plow from a wheelbarrow. There is one thing I do know—Sam Young won't lie.

If you will call at my place I will show you the Best Plow in the World.

DRAMATIC CHAT BY BEAU RIALTO

(By United Press.)

New York, Mar. 18—Isadore Duncan, who spells art with a capital A, has changed her attitude toward America. There was a time, not so many eons ago, that the classical dancer felt annoyed, even peeved, at the attitude of this nation toward her efforts. But now things are changed.

Isadora has begun to think that the poor people of America should have a chance to watch her classic toes in barefoot poses. She and her "school" are going to appear at the Century Opera House this spring at popular prices—a dime for the gallery and so on up to half a dollar for the highest priced seats—for an entire month. She made the announcement the other night at the Metropolitan.

High art stuff reminds one that Granville Barker is going to build another "New Theater." The London producer has been given the commission to revive his old project and the coin, it is said, has been pledged.

Barker plans to give his productions in the great universities this spring. He says he isn't considering the profits—perhaps there won't be any to consider.

"The Peasant Girl" opened her engagement at the Forty-Fourth Street theater the other night, with Emma Trentini singing better than ever before. The opera is another one of those musical things with lots of color, with a plot that begins over on the Blue Danube.

THE BOTTLE CAME BACK.

Virginia, Minn., March 18.—A. B. Coates has just received a bottle filled with the product that made Louisville, Ky., famous. The bottle looked familiar. Investigation proved that it was the very same bottle that he and a party of friend had emptied while dropping down the Nile River. Before throwing the bottle, into the murky water, Coates slipped his card into it and bottle it. Apparently some one picked it up and sent it to Louisville, where it was originally made. The distillery apparently thought it a good enough joke to carry it a little farther.

GOT ABOUT WHAT THEY DESIRED

Representative Jones Says Primary Law Contains Ninety Per Cent of Progressive Demands

IS SURE IT WILL WORK FINE

Feels That Rank and File Have Little to Fear But in Turn Have Gained Much

(By United Press.)

Plymouth, Ind., March 18.—John R. Jones, representative in the 69th General Assembly from this county, declared today that "the progressive Democrats, who worked for a statewide primary law, have in the present law received at least 90 percent, of what they were asking." Jones was aroused by reports that the primary law was not of the type he had been working for.

"All elective offices except state officers and United States senators are nominated by the primary. As to Governor and United States senator, a preferential vote is taken," said Jones. "If a majority report is received by either of the candidates for Governor or United States senator, as recorded by first and second choice plans, then in that case he shall be declared the nominee. Under the first and second choice plan it is next to impossible for these candidates not to receive a majority vote.

"Pretty good is it not? I am sure it will be much easier to amend and add to the present primary law than it would have been to reject and attempt to pass an entirely new bill in two years.

"We have lost nothing in accepting the primary law and have gained practically all we were asking. What more could we wish?

"All delegates to the state convention are selected under the primary law, their names going on a primary ballot, giving the voters an oportunity of pledging the delegates to stand for certain candidates and such platform measures as in their judgment will serve the best interests of the whole people.

Again, all precinct committeemen are selected by this same primary law; who in turn elect a county chairman; and the various county chairmen of the district select a state chairman. Thus, the next organization comes direct from the rank and file of the party, and must and will be responsible to them.

"I feel the rank and file of the voters have very little to fear under the present primary law; but in turn have gained much."

NEW TEXAS LABOR LAW.

(By United Press.)

Austin, Texas, March 16.—A 54-hour week bill for women workers, certain to become a law at this session of the legislature, passed the senate with women in cotton and woolen mills excluded from its protection. Senator Bee, author of the measure, felt constrained to apologize for the fact that it excluded these workers. He said that he had consented to it only because fourteen of his colleagues told him they would not vote for it if the bill did not exclude textile workers.

RUSH FOR THE JITNEYS.

Topeka, O., Mar. 16—The all popular jitney bus threatens to become more popular in Toledo.

A heavy explosion wrecked a a Toledo apartment and store building. The blast shook a large area. Newspaper extras were soon on the street.

Newsboys yelled: "All about the explosion."

Jitney bus owners yelled: "All aboard to the explosion."

Every jitney bus did a rushing business.

BOUNDARY WILL NOT CAUSE WAR

If England and United States Ever Get into Trouble it Will Not be Over Border Line

TRIBUNAL HANDLES DISPUTES

Commission Created by Treaty in 1909 Has Adjusted Many Difficulties Satisfactory to all

BY BURTON K. STANDISH
(Written for United Press.)

Washington, Mar. 17.—If the United States ever has trouble with Great Britain it will not grow out of the fact that for four thousand miles or so the United States touches one of Great Britain's colonies, the Dominion of Canada. So thinks U. S. Senator Wesley L. Jones. While ordinarily boundary lines are the surest source of war-making the United States—and likewise England—is protected in that instance by a buffer that it proving its value Senator Jones thinks. The buffer is the International Joint Commission, created by the treaty of 1909, to settle all boundary questions then pending and "to make provision for the adjustment and settlement of all such questions as may hereafter arise."

This commission is composed of: Obadian Gardner, of Maine, James M. Tawney of Minnesota, and R. B. Glenn of North Carolian, for the United States; Henry A. Powell, K. C., New Brunswick, Charles A. Magrath, Ontario, and P. B. Mignault, K. C., Quebec, for Canada.

Although organization was not effected until January 10, 1912, owing to the delay in the naming of his appointees by the King of England, the commission already has adjusted more difficulties, Senator Jones says than were settled through the diplomatic agencies of the two countries since the beginning of this government. It has still others to dispose of.

"Its work is a tribute to genius and progressive international statesmanship of the two great English-speaking nations of the world," said Senator Jones in discussing the topic. "It must be apparent to anyone that with a boundary between two countries almost 4,000 miles separate and distinct government, whose commercial, financial and industrial relations are necessarily and intimately related, and who are the owners in common of a vast property which marks almost one-half of that boundary, conflict of interest will arise in the future as in the past. Between no two countriese in the world is there a boundary of such tribunal extent.

"Diplomacy does not afford the people of two nations, whose rights and interests are involved in any international controversy, the opportunity to appear face to face to have their controversies determined upon sworn testimony and according to the principles of law. The necessity therefore for the existence of this commission or some similar tribunal will exist therefore as long as exists the necessity for court either in the United States or Canada. This is so because of the exercise of their common right to the use of the water which marks the boundary between them.

"The treaty between the United States and Great Britain creating this international court of justice makes the most advanced step yet taken by any two nations in the history of the world—not only for the settlement of international questions, but for the settlement of questions of less consequence between the people of both nations.

"There are many arbitrations between the U. S. and other nations. Doubtless there are many between other nations of the world, but there are none between any other two that creates a tribunal composed of citizens of both nations for the settlement of international questions between their governments, or between their people. This commission therefore, charged with the duty and having the power practically to work out the great problem of whether or not the theory of international peace through arbitration can or cannot be made a success, should have the hearty support of both governments.

"In my judgment this tribunal furnishes an example to the world."

REMARKABLE CURE IN RUSHVILLE

Letter Published Here Shows Local Success of Scientific Remedy.

Mr. Harrison Levi of 931 North Sexton street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I suffered with Muscular and Sciatic Rheumatism and of the joints for a long time. My left arm and hand would lose all feeling and would feel like they were paralyzed. I couldn't life my arm or use it at all and I was in a terrible condition. My kidneys and bladder were in a very bad condition also. I took lots of medicine and doctored for a long time. For a while I thought I had found a cure and my hopes were high but just to be disappointed as the trouble returned worse than ever. Finally my attention was called to Lloyd's Kidney & Rheumatism Tablets, the new scientific prescription and after taking them a few weeks I was positive that I had at last found a cure. I do not hesitate to say that Lloyd's cured me of a long-standing case and I am glad to answer all questions that other sufferers may wish to ask. Lloyd's is a wonderful prescription."

OFFERS AID TO COTTON FARMERS

Are Urged to Raise Beans and Peas as Substitute and an Aid in Fighting Pallagra

WOULD BE HELP FINANCIALLY

Pest Known as Green Bug Makes Appearance but Department Says There is no Great Danger

(By United Press.)

Washington, Mar. 18.—Farmers of the south are urged to cultivate beans and peas and raise dairy cattle as a substitute for cotton in a statement issued by the Public Health Service. It declares that by this means southern farmers will not only profit financially but will aid the fight on pallagra, which has been prevalent in the south.

"By using regularly an abundance of fresh milk, eggs, fresh lean meat, beans and peas, not only may pallagra be cured when the disease is not too far advanced, but prevented," the Public Health Service statement says. "This actually happened in at least one institution where, in 1913, 75 cases of pallagra occured. As a result of a change of diet, not a single case is known to have developed this year."

"This fact," the statement continues, "suggests the advisability of farmers in the south cultivating beans and peas and raising dairy cattle, in stead of cotton, at a time when the market for the latter abroad has been all but destroyed by foreign wars."

Twenty percent of our cotton seed meal was consumed last season by Germany, Denmark, Switzerland, and other European countries. The present war, however, has abolished the German consumption of this product. This fact, together with the large cotton crop produced this year says the Department of Agriculture has thrown an excess of cotton seed products on the home market, reducing the average price of cotton seed meal and hulls 20 to 25 percent The meal shipped to Europe last year would feed 400,000 head of mature cattle for 12 months. As a result of the large supply on hand, the department urges extensive use of cotton seed meal for cattle feeding.

Two natural causes this year have apparently prevented a general outbreak of that dangerous pest, the green bug, says the Department of Agriculture. Present weather conditions are most favorable for such an outbreak and the pest appeared some time ago in volunteer oats in South Carolina.

However, one of the department's investigators has been going over the grain fields in Texas where the pest usually first makes its appearance whenever there is a widespread invasion. As aresult, the entomologists see no possibility of an outbreak in the southwest in the coming spring. The two natural causes which seem to have prevented an outbreak this season are:

First: Acertain parasite developing on another pest, namely, the oat aphis, occured in such numbers as to overwhelm the green bug as well as the oat aphis. This is an unusual occurrance which previously has never been noticed by the department's investigators.

Second: Last fall's dry weather in the southwest hindered the growth of the voluntary grain in the fields so that almost none came up. The green bug, therefore, had little opportunity to develop until sown grain gave him a chance.

In the foot and mouth disease regulations which became effective Feb. 1, the federal authorities have changed the provisions of the quarantine in one important respect. Live stock from both exposed and modified areas can no longer be shipped to points in free area. Formerly it was possible to do this for the purpose of immediate slaughter from modified areas, and after federal certification and inspection, from exposed areas as well.

The change was determined upon because of the fact that cattle suffering with the disease were found to have been shipped from Chicago to Philadelphia, Richmond. Under the regulations now in force, cattle may only be shipped from the quarantined areas for the purpose of immediate slaughter and then only to points that are themselves in quarantined sections.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out Kidneys—Drink plenty water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

MUNICIPAL PLANT SUCCESS.

Cleveland, O., Mar., 18.—Operating against the private owned corporation at lower rates, Cleveland's municipal electric light plan earned a net profit of $48,675 in 1914, according to figures just compiled by Light Commissioner Ballard. The municipal plant serves 10,000 customers and is adding rapidly to this number. Its rate is three cents per kilowatt hour. The private owned corporation charges from five to ten cents. guaged on the amount used by the consumer.

HEARING AT DALLAS.

Dallas, Texas, March 18.—Land tenantry and the distribution of labor during and following the cotton picking and other harvests in the Southwest will be investigated by the United States Commission on Industrial Relations at a series of public hearings opening here today. There are more rent paying farmers in Texas than the farm-owning kind and the problem of landlords and tenant, especially of absentee landlordism, have become the leading political and economic issues in the State.

BUFFALO GOING AFTER PENNANT

Larry Schlafly and His Crew Are Going to Put Up Battle for the Gilmore Circuit Flag

TEAM LOOKS GOOD ON PAPER

Pitching Staff Headed by Russel Ford and Infield is Led by the Great Hal Chase

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Buffalo, Mar. 18.—Larry Schlafly and his crew of battlin' Buffeds are going to put in a mighty stiff bid for Jim Gilmore's pennant this season. On paper they look about as strong as any club in the league and should if the dope holds good, be up there biting the leaders' heels all the way. Buffalo is certainly pulling for them to perform thusly and is rather expecting it.

The team was a good one last year—not a pennant winner, but up their battling the pace setters, and it has been strengthened quite a bit during the winters' raiding.

A great deal of the Buffeds' chances for the pennant rests on Russell Ford, one time Yankee, and the best flinger in the third league last season. Ford's comeback was one of the features of the late lamented 1914. He bowled 'em over right and left, winning 21 and losing only six. Hugh Bedient was added to the staff during the winter. He is a good pitcher; no one can deny that, not even Belligerent Byron Bancroft Johnson from whose backyard he hurdled. These two, in form are going to prove mighty strong, arguments against elevated batting averages.

Another pitcher whom Schlafly is expecting much of is Howard Ehmke a coast youngster. The boy comes with a mighty sweet record for his first year as a professional. His first shot at league ball last season was with Los Angeles and he pitched forty games, winning 21 and losing 19. Not exactly rotten for a rookie Fred Anderson, Gene Krapp, Heine Schultz, were all with the Buffeds last year and did creditable work. Completing the staff are Robert Brown and Courtneay Woodman, two recruits.

Nick Allen and Walter Blair, both with the club last season, form the receiving corps. The Buffeds look a little weak in this department as neither man got above .240 in the batting marks last season.

Schlafly looks pretty snugly fortified in the infield and outfield. On first base he has the incomparable Hal Chase. The Prince doesn't need any of this "we have with us tonight" stuff to introduce him. Suffice it to say he stung the Federals' ball last season for .354 and picked 'em off around the corner for a fielding total of .981.

Bill Louden, who played second bag last season, will undoubtedly fill in again. He is steady with the bat, hanging up a .313 mark last season. For third there are Bill Roach, probably, and Smith. Roach leaped from the Buffalo Internationals, then did a Walter Johnson back, so his case is sort of up in the air. Engle will play short, it is presumed.

The addition of Jack Dalton, late of the Dodgers, to the outfield, is going to make it compare favorably with any in the league. "Curse-you-Jack" was considered easily one of the best outfielders in the National League last season, batting .319 and he should increase that mark, in the Federal circuit. Dalton probably will take the center field. Jow side of him and Charley McDonald Agler all around man. will be on one or the other. McDonald, by the way is no slouch with the bludgeon, either He stung the ball for .319 last season.

All told, Buffalo fans are settling back prepared to watch a rattlin' good fight for the pennant, with fair chance of seeing their favorite romp home in the lead—or very close thereabout.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Common garden Sage and Sulphur makes streaked, faded or gray hair dark and glossy at once.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

The House the Red Jacket Saved

Read This Letter:
"Several years ago I called on Lane & Evans to buy a pump and they almost forced me to buy one of your Fig. 28 Red Jacket Double-Acting Force Pumps and fifty feet of hose when I only intended to buy a cheap set length pump. Mr. Lane put up such strong argument on "fire protection" that I followed his advice and bought the Fig. 28, little thinking that it would be of any service to me in that respect.
Shortly after the pump was installed, my barn caught fire and had it not been for this pump and hose and the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Barnett, my barn. house and all buildings on the place would have been destroyed."

We Have Our Spring Buggies In!
and they are ready for your inspection and we extend you an invitation to call and look them over this week as it will be to your interest to make your selection between now and the closing day of our Opening. We will explain why when you come in. We have the finest buggies ever placed on a sample floor and we want you to look them over. If you need a Storm Buggy this is the correct place to get what you want. We are not selling them at a reduction of $25.00, however, but we are selling them just the same as we have all season at $100.00. We have always said that our price was just as low at any time as the cut prices of our competitors, and we are always ready to do as we advertise. When a merchant advertises he has made a cut of $25.00 on a buggy use a little common sense in forming an opinion about this like the fellow that was in a state of Coma, and his friends thought he was dead, but before time to bury him he showed signs of life. When he rallied enough to talk his friends asked him how it seemed to be dead. "Dead," he exclaimed, "I knew all the time what was going on and I knew I wasn't dead, too, because my feet were cold and I was hungry and I knew that if I was in heaven I wouldn't be hungry and if I was in the other place my feet wouldn't be cold. Now if you will study out 99 per cent of the cut price argument you will see just about as much to them as there is in this little story. In other words, somebody has to be the goat, and the man that takes $25.00 off of a buggy during a sale must have a lot on when he is selling regular. Buy your buggies where the price is always the same and as low as any cut price sale ever advertised in Rush County. Let the other fellow be the goat this time.

No Conscription In England But There Is Some Persuasion

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD

London, Mar. 1.—(By Mail to New York)—There is no conscription in England. But there is a form of Persuasion, that is just as effective, by which Lord Kitchener's army has in part, been made up.

The big landowners of England are among the most effective recruiters that England has today. There are parts of the little island of England where one may stand on a high hill and look about him with field glasses and know that every inch of land, as far as he can see, is owned by one man. On this land are small villages. These villages have their homes, their business street, their public libraries, their hotels and railroad stations and postoffices, but every institution in the village and every person exists in that district by permission of the duke or lord who owns the land. To these persons in such villages the good will of the landowner is of more importance than the good will of the king. "His grace," as the tenants call him, possesses an almost unlimited power over the lives and actions of the tenants.

"His grace," in one of these small towns, has only to publicly express his wish that every able bodied young man in the place shall enlist and after that wish is expressed woe betide the young man, who, several weeks later, without good reason, is still found within the village precincts. The old men and the women revile him and the girls of the village "cut him" dead. There is only one thing for him to do and that is to go to war.

The village of Arundel, on the estate of the Duke of Norfolk, who owns 49,000 acres in the south of England, is an example of the small English town where young men are not to be seen. What includence the Duke of Norfolk used in helping his king to secure recruits is not known. But the fact remains that Arundel has contributed all of its young men, who could possibly get away, to the army.

As you pass through the street of Arundel you see, hanging in the windows of the cottages, large and gaily colored cards bearing the name of the man in that household who have gone to war. It is not unusual to see three or four cards in the window of a little home.

"Who are those cards for?" I asked a woman standing at the the door of her cottage.

"My two sons and my husband," she said, proudly. "I haven't any more and they're all at the front. Those cards are all I've got to show that any men ever lived in this this house."

In the great million-dollar cathedral of the town, which the duke built, with his own money, there were eighteen black-bordered cards on the bulletin boards, bearing the names of men who have fallen in battle. And the congregation of the church numbers only 1,000, a large majority of them being women. There are few churches in England that can show a record like that of the Duke of Norfolk's cathedral.

The verger of the church tells visitors:

"Almost all the young men have gone to war. "I've got three sons and two grandsons serving."

This "persuasion" of the English landowners may indicate a condition bordering on feudalism but the young men march off singing and happy and their families remain, proud and full of assurance that they are doing their duty by "his grace."

Plenty of members of parliament are mad at English government. How many there are of these would-be insurgents and how mad they are cannot be learned; the fog of war hides these facts. Every now and then some member of the insurgent part gets up in parliament and says he thinks that parliament ought to be taken into the confidence of the leaders.

Everybody says, "How interesting!" the mad member sits down again and that ends it.

But just transfer the situation to Washington and see whether our congressmen and senators wouldn't be mad, too, under the circumstances. Suppose the United States were at war with some foreign nation and suppose that:

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and Speaker Champ Clark and all the democratic leaders shut up as tight as clams and wouldn't tell anybody in congress what they were doing. And suppose that.

The President and Bryan and Clark called to their councils Senator Boise Penrose, and Uncle Joe Cannon and Elihu Root and all the leaders of the Republican "opposition" and planned with them what should be done but still refused to tell the democratic members of parliament what was doing. And suppose that:

The democratic members of congress called Bryan and Daniels and Garrison before them demanding information about what the state department and the navy and the army were doing and these gentleman said, in effect:

"We can't tell you what we're doing. It wouldn't be wise."

Wouldn't congress be mad?

And suppose that Wilson was able to keep the lid down on the angry speech of all the democrats and Boise Penrose and Uncle Joe Cannon helped him, wouldn't congress be still madder?

That's exactly the situation of the members of the English parliament. Both the liberals, who in our country would be democrats and unionists, who would be members of the Republican party, have this anger.

And then suppose, on top of all of this, the general election was due within a few weeks and Wilson and Penrose get together and decided that congress must vote to postpone the election until after the war. And suppose congress had to follow their orders.

Wouldn't congress believe that everything that Gen. Sherman had said about war was true?

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

They Are Closely Observing Public Health Conditions.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

According to this it would seem that a medicine for the kidneys, possessing real healing and curative properties, would be a blessing to thousands.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., who prepare Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the well known kidney, liver and bladder remedy, claim that judging from evidence received from druggists everywhere, who are constantly in touch with their customers, and also indisputable proof in the form of grateful testimonial letters from thousands of reliable citizens, this preparation is remarkably successful in sickness caused by kidney and bladder troubles.. Every interesting statement they receive regarding Swamp-Root is investigated and no testimonial is published unless the party who sends it is reported of good character. They have on file many sworn statements of recoveries in the most distressing cases. They state that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is mild and gentle in its action and its healing influence is soon noticed in most cases.

Swamp-Root is purely an herbal compound and Dr. Kilmer & Co., advise all readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes —50c and $1.00. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention The Daily Republican.

TELLS OF CUTTING OFF HIS OWN HAND

In Suit for Damaged Plaintiff Related How he Was Caught in Cogs and Used Pen Knife

$35,000 IS AMOUNT DEMANDED

(By United Press.)

Denver, Mar. 18.—How he cut off his own hand at the wrist with a penknife, after being caught in the cogs of an electric pump was told here by Wallace E. Rittenhouse, who is suing the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company for $35,000 damages.

Rittenhouse claimed that the place where the electric pump was located was badly lighted. It was his duty to oil the pump. He slipped on a car wheel, catching in the gear wheel of the pump. Rittenhouse said he dropped his miner's candle and was left in total darkness. Held fast in the machinery, he struck a match with his free hand, re-lighted his candle, and drawing his knife, severed his ar mat the wrist in order to free himself. He claims he then had to walk about 1,000 feet to reach aid.

MAY INVESTIGATE ALLEGED FRAUDS

Rumors Heard Following Announcement That Marion County Grand Jury Will Meet

IN JUDGE COLLINS' COURT

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, March 18.—The Marion county grand jury was expected to report today or tomorrow, and it was hinted here and there that a sensation might be expected. Indictments returned by this grand jury receive consideration in the Marion county criminal court, of which James A. Collins is judge.

Judge Collins was the one aimed at by the Elsner Change of venue bill in the recent legislature. This bill has otherwise been called the "felons' relief bill." It would have forced a judge to grant change of venue to another county in criminal cases. The bill passed the senate unamended, but in the house so much opposition arose that its friends amended it to apply only to men facing charges growing out of alleged election corruption.

Had the bill become a law, any one indicted by the Marion county grand jury on election fraud charges might easily have escaped trial under Judge Collins. As it is, any indicted person probably will be tried by Collins.

The rumor was that prominent politicians would be indicted and that the charges would have to do with alleged election frauds.

STATE HAS SOME NEW EVIDENCE

Brings Out That Many Shipments Were Received by Express by E. Casey and N. Casey.

SECOND TRIAL LIQUOR CASE

Supreme Court Decision Says Sentences Run Concurrently But Fines Are Accumulative.

CASEY FOUND GUILTY

Newton Casey was found guilty by the jury in the circuit court late this afternoon and fined $290 and sentenced to jail for 110 days. The jury was out about one hour in reaching a verdict. This fine and jail sentence is reduced over that of the jury in police court.

The case against Newton Casey, charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, was heard today in the circuit court. The case was taken to the circuit court on an appeal from the mayor's court and because it was the first case of those appealed to be tried there considerable interest was shown.

Convictions in police court have been comparatively easy to secure here of late and because this case started there the interest centered in what a circuit court jury would do with Casey. The case was expected to go to the jury late this afternoon. The court room was crowded throughout the day.

The evidence was practically the same as that introduced in police court. The state introduced additional evidence through drivers and agents for local express companies. By their testimony the state tended to show that Casey received many shipments, supposed to be liquor and beer. Marion Finney, driver for the Wells-Fargo and American express companies, testified that he had delivered as manp as ten boxes to the Casey rooms since December. The state brought out that some of the packages were heavier than others. He was unable to tell the contents of the boxes as they were not labeled. Agents for the companies testified that the shipments came addressed to N. Casey and others to E. Casey.

Through the police the state showed that the traffic up and down the stairs to the Casey rooms over the Roth pool room was heavy. The traffic, it was brought out, was heavier on big days in Rushville. It was stated that more men went up and down the stairs on Saturdays than other days. The state tended to show that all this travel up and down stairs was not because of a barber ship located on the same floor as the barber shop has only one chair.

All of the police told oftheraidin which the barrel of beer and case of empty whiskey bottles was fund. This is the raid on which the case is based. The testimony on this point was the same as in police court. Casey was found guilty in police court and fined 350 and given six months in jail.

Little difficulty was experienced in obtaining the jury. In the list of jurors selected to try Casey on this charge are several that tried him on the charge of associating last week. It will be recalled that he was fined $90 and sentenced to sixty days on this charge. The question came up this morning as to whether Casey would have to serve both jail sentences should one be imposed by the jury trying the case today.

The supreme court has held that

STEVEN KELLEY'S FATHER EXPIRES

Michael E. Kelley, One Time a Resident of This City, Dies in Indianapolis.

HE LEFT HERE 18 YEARS AGO

Steven Kelley, 629 North Jackson street, received word this morning of the death of his father, Michael E. Kelley, in Indianapolis. Mr. Kelley had been in poor health for several months and because of his old age, little hopes for his recovery were given. He was eighty-five years old. Mr. Kelley was a former resident of this city, making his home for a number of years in a large house in East Fifth street, which is no longer standing. He left here about eighteen years ago, moving to Indianapolis. Besides a wife, he is survived by five children and several grandchildren. He died at four o'clock this morning. Burial will take place in Indianapolis.

VERNAL EQUINOX GETS THE BLAME

Snow Falls Today When Spring is in the Offing and Destroys All Hopes.

TO BE UNSETTLED TOMORROW

Most people were blaming the vernal equinox for the snow storm today, but again, some others were prone to view it as "downright cussedness" of the weather man to visit snow on a people that has been basking in the warm rays of an advanced spring sun and dreaming on the days when the leaves would begin to appear.

Next Sunday is the day for spring to enter officially, and it generally enters on a cold wave, a snow storm or something of the sort. This year it is getting a running start. The forecast today is for unsettled weather, with local snow flurries tomorrow.

Snow was in the air this morning but it did not begin to fall steadily, in large white flakes, until about two o'clock this afternoon. The snow melted just as soon as it struck the ground. Word from Greensburg today was that there was one-half inch of snow on the ground there.

William Emsweller and family have moved from Tenth and Harrison streets to his farm near New Salem.

COMMITTEES NAMED TODAY

Final Arrangements Made For Meeting of Sixth District Teachers Here Tomorrow.

MUCH INTEREST IN SESSIONS

L. N. Hines, Author of Teachers Pension Law, Writes That he Will Come Saturday.

Residents of Rushville responded splendidly, said Superintendent J. H. Scholl, to the request for accommodations for teachers who will attend the first meeting of the Sixth District Educational association which will open here Friday evening and continue until Saturday evening. Seventy-five offers have been received by the committee to care for visiting teachers.

Additional word was received today by Superintendent Scholl concerning delegations of teachers which were coming. The special committees which will have in charge the decoration, reception and refreshment features of the meeting were announced today.

A letter was received today asking that reservations be made for a party of Richmond teachers who will arrive tomorerw afternoon in time for the first session. The first news received from the Superintendent J. T. Giles was in effect that the Richmond delegation would not come until Saturday morning.

Another letter was received today from Superintendent L. N. Hines of Crawfordsvilel assuringthe local arrangements committee that he would be here in time to address the teachers Saturday morning at 10:50 on the new teachers pension law. Superintendent Hines wrote and urged the passage of the teachers bill and is more thoroughly acquainted with it than any other person in Indiana. For this reason much interest attaches to his address because very little is known about the application of the law.

The chief address at the opening session Friday evening will be made by by Dr. W. W. Black of Indiana university. The meetings will all be held in the Graham high school building. The assembly will be used for the main meetings and the conference on handwriting. The conference on vocational guidance will be held in room No. 11.

The following committees were named today:

Reception—H. B. Wilson, chairman, Frank Forry, Miss Leta Denny, E. B. Marlatt, Miss Belle Gregg, Miss Carrie Kitchen, Miss Lois Fritter, Miss Pet Meredith, Miss Edith Caldwell, Virgil Binford, Miss Nelle Casady, Miss May Meredith, Miss Edith Hiner, Miss Belle Forsythe, Miss Kathryn Petry and J. S. Bean.

Decorating—Miss Henrietta Coleman, chairman, N. W. Coil, Miss Margaret Casady, Miss Pearl Applegate, Miss Georgia Morris, Miss Margaret Fleehart, Miss Elizabeth Flint and Mrs. Mary Wills Adams.

Refreshments—Miss Kate Dennis, chairman, Miss Genevieve Brown, R. W. Burns, Miss Elizabeth Waite, Miss Ellen Madden and Miss Pearl Kitchen.

HAULED TO JAIL.

John Anthony, employed by C. O. Patton, south of the city, was arrested here yesterday afternoon late on the charge of public intoxication. Anthony was found at the Big Four depot where he was waiting for a train to Milroy. He was hauled to jail in the baggage wagon. A fine of one dollar and costs was assessed by Mayor Bebout. Anthony had been in Connersville.

HELD IN JAIL FOR FORGING CHECKS

Lon Flint Mays Blacksmith, Accused of Having Passed Bad Paper to Get $8

TAKEN ON BENCH WARRANT

Lon Flint, 22 years old, a blacksmith of Mays, is held in jail on a bench warrant charging forgery. He is alleged to have forged two checks one for $5 and the other for $3 on the Mays bank. Flint, it is understood, is ready to plead guilty.

He is a married man and has two children. For this reason the Mays bank, it is stated, will ask the court to be lenient. Flint was first arrested in the squire's court and bound over to the circuit court. When brought here the squire failed to send the warrant and a bench warrant was issued.

TENANT HOUSE IS BURNED

Dwelling on Sylvia Hodge Farm Near Homer is Destroyed.

A tenant house on the Sylvia Hodge farm, near Homer, was destroyed by fire last evening between six-thirty o'clock and seven o'clock. The house was occupied by Roscoe Headlee and family, and most of the household goods were taken out in time. The fire is believed to have started from a defective flue. The house was a small one containing only three rooms and the loss is not very great. The owner carried $75 insurance on the building.

CHINESE SITUATION LOOMS LARGE TODAY

China Already Applied to United States to Make Representations to Japan

ADMINISTRATION WATCHING

MAKES REQUEST OF JAPAN

(By United Press.)

Washington, March 18—The United States has asked Japan to respect China's integrity, it was learned officially today, though neither President Wilson or Secretary Bryan would admit just what form the representations took. They agreed, however, that the appeal to Japan was in the friendliest language and that the mikado's government would make material modification in its demands.

(By United Press.)

Washington, March 18.—The Chinese situation today loomed up as a greater menace to American foreign relations than European war conditions though officials would not talk.

The United States is looked on by China as its "next friend." China has applied to this country to force Japan to relinquish her designs on China's territorial integrity. The United States has already unofficially explained to Japan that any attempt to dominate China would be unfriendly. Whether this government has joined England and Russia in a formal protest as Pekin advices indicate is not known. Secretary Bryan said the administration was watching developments but would not say whether there had been distinct representations made.

Japanese embassy officials, while refusing to make any authoritative statement, insisted that much of the trouble was being stirred up by German agents in China.

SALOON MAN'S WIFE HELPED

Mrs. Frank Hess Testifies She Wrote 55 False Registration Blanks in Her Kitchen.

TERRE HAUTE CASE GOES ON

As Fast as She Could Write Them, She Says, Her Husband Passed Them Out to Repeaters.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—When Jack Hines, Democratic boss and saloon keeper in the Terre Haute red light district, the sixth ward, was placed on the stand by District Attorney Daily today in the government's first investigation of a local election under the criminal clause of the criminal code, he admitted that he was in turn was bossed by Mayor Donn M. Roberts, the chief defendant.

"His men told me that if I did not help to get out 300 false votes on election day he would put me out of business," said Hines. After I confessed to the grand jury I sold my saloon."

"How long have you done Donn Roberts' dirty work?" asked District Attorney Dailey.

"About six years," said Hines.

On cross examination Attorney A. O. Stanley brought out that Hines was arrested and fined for associating with prostitutes. Dailey then questioned the witness.

"The next time you were arrested was for association with Mayor Donn M. Roberts was it not?" he asked.

Hines agreed that it was.

Election corruption evidence which had been buried in the ground under a shed of the Frank Hess west end saloon was produced today by Mrs. Clara Hess, wife of Defendant Hess, who formerly was mayor Donn M. Roberts' most powerful aid in the tenderloin.

Mrs. Hess identified forty-five false registration applications which she made out on the diming room table in her own kitchen adjoining the saloon.

She said she helped her husband make out the false papers after Chief Holler had brought down about two hundred cards bearing names which Holler claimed Roberts said must be written on application blanks. She said her husband's saloon was the headquarters for the repeaters in the west end and that she saw her husband give repeaters false applications.

As soon as she made out an application, she said, her husband would give it to a repeater.

PAIGE

"A New Standard of Value and Quality"

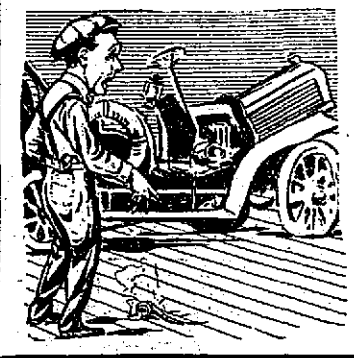

The last automobile show of the season is now over. If you attended the Indianapolis show, we know that you were impressed with the beauty, style and quality of the PAIGE four and six cylinder car. You must not judge then by the price at which they sell, for the new price of $1075 for the four and $1395 for the six establishes a new standard of value in automobiles. If you will compare them point by point and feature by feature with cars selling at $200 to $300 more, we believe as a discriminating purchaser you will select the PAIGE. Correct design and high quality of materials are two essentials which make for durability, comfort and economy of maintenance. In each of these essentials the PAIGE car excels. With heat treated chrome nickle-steel axles and gears, wonderfully quiet and powerful motors, supplemented with Bosch high tension magneto ignition and cooled by fan, circulating pump and genuine Mayo cellular radiators, large Gray and Davis two unit starting and lighting system, the PAIGE car compares better with machines selling for a much higher price. No other construction is better than this, no matter what the price, and no other car is so well built to withstand hard service. Its chief designer, Mr. A. Baechle is an expert on both French and American designs, and he knew how to choose just the right quantity of the right kind of material for each component part to give its greatest strength and stamina, and when the machine is old and the real test comes, then the PAIGE shows its marked superiority. These are some of the reasons why a motor-wise public purchased a million dollars worth of PAIGE cars during the New York and Chicago shows, and why you should see this unusual car at the UWANTA GARAGE or call phone 1728 and arrange for a demonstration.

SALOON MAN'S WIFE HELPED

rested last night by the city police were Wes Godfrey, confessed conspirator in the government election conspiracy case involving Terre Haute, and Sid Onyette, a government witness. They were slated under assumed names.

Storen began an investigation. He tried to find out who is selling liquor to government witnesses. Godfrey is one of the most valuable witnesses the government has. Following close on the spectacle presented by George Kintz, government witnesses, who took the stand while intoxicated, the situation is regarded as serious by the government.

Jack Hines, former powerful political boss of the sixth ward the center of the red light district, resumed the stand today. He testified late yesterday that his saloon was in a building owned by Mrs. Donn M. Roberts, wife of the mayor. Hines testified that about eighteen or twenty negroes live in Precinct A of the Sixth Ward, and that the election returns show that between 250 and 300 negroes were voted.

Because he refused to contribute to the Democratic campaign fund at the request of the Terre Haute police, his saloon was closed on election day, according to the testimony of August Bakemeyer, a former Terre Haute saloon keeper, while other liquor dealers have testified that their places were allowed to run.

Bakemeyer said he was called to police headquarters the night before election and asked if he wanted to contribute to the fund, and he told John F. Nugent, assistant chief of police, that he did not want to make any contribution, and it was at that time he received instructions to remain closed the next day, the witness testified.

"The night before the last election Ed Holler, the chief of police called me on the telephone and asked me to came to headquarters at 7 o'clock that night," Bakemeyer testified. "I found Nugent at headquarters and he told me to keep my place closed tight the next day and to get out and hustle to get the voters to the polls.

"Just as I was going out Nugent called me back and said: 'Do you feel like you want to contribute to the campaign fund?' and I said 'no.' After the election I sold my place."

"Why did you decide to get out of the saloon business?" asked District Attorney Dailey.

"Because I had a bad policeman," the witness replied.

He said the police on the beat gave him unusual orders concerning the hours he was to remain open. Bakemeyer said he never had contributed to a campaign fund and that he had endeavored to conduct his saloon according to law.

jail sentences run concurrently and if he drew a jail sentence today he would immediately begin serving. Thus one day in jail can be applied to both jail sentences, and the one with the longer term will hold him in jail. The jail sentences are not accumulative but the fines are, according to decisions of the higher court.

The jury trying the case was composed of the following: Charles McBride, William S. Newhouse, A. M. Ellison, Conrad Posz, John J. Conoway, Lon Ellison, A. N. Williams, D. Z. Williams, Clarence Daubenspeck, James Smith, William M. Bosley and Peter S. Hollowell.

Reports today from Anderson were that the Princess theater orchestra made a big hit at the St. Patrick's day dance last night with its music. The orchestra was augmented by a trombone player and another saxaphone player from Anderson and the result was that the crowd of fifty-five couples could not get enough of the music. Dode Fitzgerald, a dancing master, who gave the dance, told the local orchestra that he would use them elsewhere for his dances. He has classes in several northern Indiana cities.

A Merchants Style Show.

Newcastle merchants are going to hold a style show in April. This is significant. t means a united effort on the part of the retailers to draw the attention of the people to the town of Newcastle as a whole and not to any individual merchant. It serves to make a better and broader spirit among the merchants and brings about better feeling.

Merchants here have privately discussed such an attempt but they have never taken the steps necessary to consummate such a plan. Merchants have read magazine articles about wide-awake towns which had combined in staging one mammouth style show that attracts attention generally. It is a great advertisement for any city.

Newcastle is in earnest. The Newcastle Courier says the purpose of the show is to have every merchant in the city arrange attractive displays in their show windows and on the floors of the stores at the same time. The latest creations in dresses, clothing, hats, haberdashery, shoes, furniture, millinery, and in fact every thing handled by local retail merchants, will be shown. Groceries will have their new produce on hand, the bakers will make an extra effort for a good showing, the druggists will display certain lines and in fact every merchant and retailer in the city will put on "style" for the show which will be the most extensive ever held in this or surrounding cities. Extra efforts will be made to get the country trade into this city.

To further this purpose and to talk the matter over every retailer in the city is invited to attend a business men's lunch at the Bundy hotel Friday evening of this week at 6:30. Ot J. Holloway and Lawrence Clift have been appointed on the "seeing" committee and it is their desire to "see" every retailer in the city to invite him to be present at the lunch. Every retailer is invited and if by chance any one is overlooked he is asked to call either Holloway or Clift who will reserve a plate for him. It is hoped that every one who is going to attend will not fail to notify the committee as it is in this way that the number of plates can be ordered. There will be speeches by some retailers but these speeches will not be "experience" talks, they will be right to the point.

Game, Stock and Citizens

The epidemic of the foot-and-mouth disease and its effect on the packing industry and the stock yards of Chicago have been commented on widely in the daily press from various points of view. One of the most illuminating comments appears in a recent issue of the Chicago Journal under the heading "Live Stock Versus Quail." Taking the best available estimates of the amount of live stock contained in the state and figuring on an average value of horses at $140 a head, milk cows at $65, other cows at $50, swine at $15, sheep at $6, and mules at $150 (minimum valuations, as most will admit) the Journal says the total value of live stock in Illinois would be $435,276,000, for the protection of which the state legislature appropriated for the current year a total of $37,340. By way of comparison the Journal quotes the appropriation for the protection of fish and game for the same time, which amounts to $151,600. The Journal properly characterizes such a situation as "intolerable." It says "To spend four times as much money protecting quail, ducks and prairie chickens as we spend in caring for one of the basic industries of the state is sheer communal lunacy." This is true. The farmers and business men of Illinois should see to it that every cent that is necessary to protect the live stock of the state is provided, no matter what economies may be necessary in other directions. But, asks The Journal of the American Medical Association, if such appropriations are justified for the protection of the lives and health of animals, how much should be appropriated to protect the lives and health of the men, women and children of the state? Certainly more than for fish game, and live stock. Yet the appropriation for the protection of the 5,638,591 men, women and children in the state was for 1914 only $120,000, $30,000 less than was appropriated for the protection of fish and game. Are the lives of its citizens of less value to Illinois than the preservation of its quail and bass?

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

National Finances

(Kokomo Tribune)

The general fund of the United States treasury has dwindled to approximately forty million dollars. In the years of Republican rule fifty millions of available cash was regarded as the danger line. The available cash in the general fund is now ten millions below the level. How to replenish this fund is the problem which is now puzzling the administration treasury officials. The general belief in financial circles is that this can be accomplished in only one way, by the issuing of bonds, and it is confidently predicted that this dreaded eventuality can be postponed not more than two months at the farthest. And so it is likely that within sixty days this administration, like that of Grover Cleveland's, its last predecessor of like political faith, will be selling bonds to get the money needed to run the government. The prediction is that the sale will be that if the Panama Canal bonds. Of the Panama Canal bonds authorized by congress $240,569,000 remain unissued, more than sufficient to provide for any emergency that might arise before congress convenes again. The rate at which the outgo of the treasury exceeds the income may be gathered from the records for the year. The excess of disbursements for the fiscal year 1915 up to Friday night was $105,756,532. On the same date last year it was $49,125,258. These totals include expenditures for the Panama Canal. In the meantime the rate of outgo has increased and the rate of income is not keeping pace with it.

A Cloud on the Political Horizon

May Develop into a Storm and Prove Disastrous to Party in Power in the Next Presidential Election

[By J. Feudner.]

A new movement is under way in the United States which may possibly have quite a bearing on the political situation in the next presidential campaign. This movement is the organization of "hyphenated" Americans. In recent issues of the American press and article went the rounds which insinuated that the "hyphenated" Americans (meaning those who did not have a pro-English tendency), were disloyal to the land of their adoption. This aroused great indignation among those thus accused.

Here in Denver a mass meeting was held recently to protest against this insinuation, and also to protest against the "one-sided" neutrality of the Wilson administration, and strong resolutions were pased. I understand that such meetings are being held all over the United States and a new party is being organized under title of "American Independence Union" or "Neutrality League." This organization demands that the constitution of the United States be upheld; that an American cable and an independent news service be established; that there shall be a "free and open sea" for our commerce and unrestricted traffic in non-contraband goods, as defined by the international law; that the establishment of an American merchant marine be encouraged; that the export of arms and ammunition to the belligerents in Europe be prohibited.

In this connection it may be well to relate two cases. A Yale student by the name of Lewellyn (not a German name by any means), who enlisted in the German army, was wounded in France. He was decorated with the iron cross, and they took two bullets out of his flesh that had been manufactured in Connecticut. An American of old Yankee stock, who attended the meeting of the American Independence Union, told of a letter he had received from his sister who had married in Germany and had three sons at the front. One was killed by an American bullet, and what she wrote her brother about her native country would bring the blush of shame on patriotic American citizens.

As to the insinuation that "hyphenated" Americans were not loyal to this country, it is only necessary to study history and to look around and observe. I speak for those of German blood and descend. Past experience has shown that there are no more loyal, patriotic and useful citizens than the Germans. And those that come from Germany usually become naturalized American citizens as soon as the law permits them to become such. On the other hand, it is a well established fact that of all the various foreigners coming to the United States, the Englishman is the last to become a naturalized American citizen. Here in Denver is a case which is the limit. A clergyman of a church here in Denver, is so staunchily English that he would not even permit his children to be born here in the United States. Whenever a visit from the stork was expected, he sent his wife to England so that the children should be born English subjects. He has lived here for a good many years and is perfectly willing to pocket the American dollar, but as to the citizenship—"nix." This case is certainly the very limit.

Another "hyphenated" American is being heard from, namely the Irish American. His sympathy is by no means pro-English. Last Sunday I attended a "Robert Emmett" anniversary meeting in the Knights of Columbus hall in Denver. The invitation was sent out that all who wanted to hear the truth about England should attend the meeting. The program consisted of Irish songs and music and addresses by prominent Irish speakers. Strong resolutions were passed to the effect that the Irish people should co-operate with England's enemies in order to gain Ireland's freedom. Prominent Irishmen here in Denver assisted in the organization of the Neutrality League, which is being freely joined by Irish-Americans.

It is claimed that the spirit of these organizations is already making itself felt, as evidenced by the recent Chicago primary election, in which Sweitzer was nominated for mayor over Carter Harrison, a popular Democrat, by 75,000 majority. Harrison had the support of the Wilson administration, while Sweitzer had the support of thousands of men and women, who, although Democrats, are thoroughly out of harmony with the administration in its attitude on neutrality.

The New York American of February 26th comments editorially on the Chicago primary, and hints at the cause of Harrison defeat as follows:

"A friend of the triumphant Sweitzer declares that it was a triumph of the German-American element—a sort of first fruit of the Hon. Richard Bartholdt's proposition to make a domestic political party out of an international issue."

The importance of the new movement in our national life is duly recognized by Leslie's Weekly, which declares in an editorial:

"The new pro-German political party representing from eight to ten million persons of German birth and descent in the United States, must have a decided sentimental influence in the next Presidential campaign if it maintains its purpose. Its practical result must await the count of the ballots. The fact that in Passaic, N. J., the German element has already organized to take an active part in local politics indicates the strength of the movement.

"The success with which certain leaders of the Labor and Prohibition parties have carried on their political propaganda following the success, in other years, of the Granger, the Populist, Greenback, Know-nothing and Anti-Masonic movements, has no doubt, stimulated the German element to take decisive action in the belief that only in this way can its influence be made effective. If this movement goes on, and if the war abroad should be prolonged for another year, we shall find both the great political parties bidding for the German vote, and as this will surpass in numbers that of the so-called Labor vote and perhaps equal the Prohibition vote, the political situation promises to become interesting.

"The advent of a well-organized German party in American politics, with its demand that we shut off supplies from all of the belligerents, Great Britian included, supported as this party would be by an influential German press, would complicate the Presidential canvass and put a damper on the aspirations of some of the candidates now in sight. If to the anti-British feeling of the Germans we add the anti-British feeling among the strong Irish element, and if we consider the inroads on both political parties the Prohibitionists are making, we shall find something to take the place of the "Progressive" break that destroyed Republican prospects in the last Presidential campaign.

"A year hence the National Committees will name the time and place for the holding of the respective Presidential conventions, and fifteen months from this time the next Presidential campaign will open with all the candidates in the field. It is obvious that the new factor now looming up must cause greater anxiety to the party in power than to the one that seeks to regain control."

Much Adler-i-ka Used in Rushville

It is reported by F. E. Wolcott that much Adler-i-ka is sold in Rushville. Fortified Tires

Span the Way from Trouble

Goodyear tires have bridged the way for countless men to less trouble and tax. And those men, by their endorsement, brought our last year's output up to 1,479,883 tires.

Why do you suppose that Goodyears hold top place—you who use other tires? They have held that place for years, outselling any other.

The only reason, as you must know, is that Goodyears average best. And that's how they are bound to win you.

The Super-Tire

They are not trouble-proof. Mishaps come to them, misuse affects them, much like other tires.

But Goodyears are Fortified Tires. They protect you in five ways employed by no other maker. They combat five major troubles in unique ways, exclusive to Fortified Tires.

These five extra features cost us fortunes. One alone—our "On-Air" cure—costs us $450,000 yearly. But they save Goodyear users millions of dollars yearly. They avoid countless troubles for them.

Lower Prices

On February 1st we made another big reduction. That makes three in two years, totaling 45 per cent. We are giving you, through mammoth production, the best tire value ever known.

Please prove this, for your own sake, by the tire itself. The following Goodyear Service Stations will supply you:

Acts of Recent Legislature Are Explained by Expert, John A. Lapp

(This is the fourth of a series of articles prepared for the United Press by John A. Lapp director of the Bureau of Legislative Information, explaining the new state laws. Editor.)

Trading Stamps

The bill regulating and licensing the handling of trading stamps became a law without the governor's signature and will go into effect when the acts are published. This law is rather a drastic regulation of the trading stamp business. It required that every person selling or furnishing trading stamps for use in the sale of goods or merchandise shall take out a license in each county where the trading stamps are sold and for each and every store or place consumer or dealer.

The license fee required is $1,000.00 which is paid into the county treasury and entitles the holder of the license to sell or furnish trading stamps for a period of one year. The licenses good at the location or place of business mentioned in it and business cannot be transacted elsewhere. No one may furnish or sell to any person any trading stamps for use in any other county than the one in which the license was taken out. This provision makes it necessary therefore that a separate license be taken out in each county in which the person desires to do business.

If any person violates the act he maybe fined not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars and imprisoned for a period not exceeding one year.

Prior to the passage of this act, trading stamps were regulated by an act of the legislature of 1913, which required that the redeemable value of trading stamps be stamped upon their face and that they must be redeemed at the value, when presented in an amount not less than five cents. The law of 1913 also prohibited a person selling any stamps without the consent of the person originally issuing them and responsible for their redeption.

The new law is drastic in its provisions inasmuch as it places the license fee so high as practically to prevent the business from being carried on. Similar laws enacted in half a dozen other states in the last ten years have been declared to be unconstitutional, and if the same reasoning were followed in Indiana, the new act could hardly stand the test of the courts.

RICHMOND WILL ENTER LEAGUE

Directors Decide on This Course and Meeting Will be Held There Sunday For Organization.

LOOKS LIKE SUCCESS NOW

Rushville Asked to Send Representative—Connersville and Newcastle to be Represented.

The Richmond ball club at a meeting last night decided to enter the proposed Sunday league, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made. With Richmond's favorable decision the league now look to be a sure go and a meeting will be held there Sunday to perfect the plans.

L. M. Shaw, secretary of the Richmond club, sent word this morning to all the cities interested in the league asking them to be represented at a meeting to be held there Sunday. The Richmond directors decided that now was the time to form the organization and that the sooner the meeting was held the better. A meeting of the K. I. O. association is scheduled for Dayton, Ohio, Sunday but the Richmond club officials believed that the formation of the league was more important and if the other cities were in earnest regarding the league that the meeting should go ahead for Sunday.

Jack Remington, of Connersville, and Tommy Ritter, of Newcastle, have promised to attend and as Rushville is anxious to see the league go through, the secretary and possibly some other officials will attend the meeting. A stockholders meeting is scheduled for here Sunday afternoon but as the Richmond meeting is of much more importance as the success of the formation of the league depends on the meeting, several of the men here will probably attend.

The Richmond club was the only one of the home teams that was doubtful about entering the league. The Richmond team will probably make some demands of the other teams and this is to be expected as Richmond is by far the largest city in the proposed league and should draw a larger attendance.

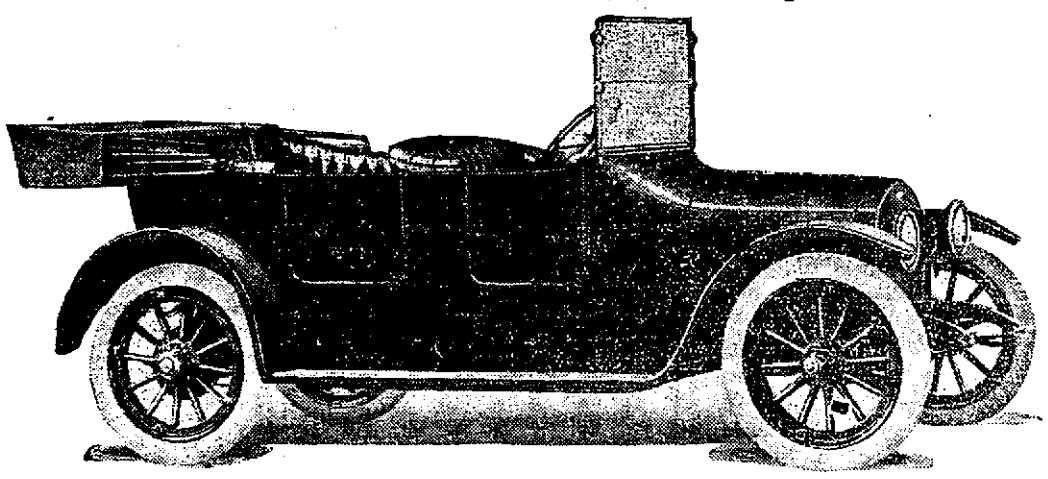

The fans here are highly in favor of the league and the inter-city rivalry should make the league a success. At the meeting Sunday officers will be named and a committee appointed to draft a schedule. This meeting will be the most important baseball meeting held in this section and it is expected to put the league on some working basis and go ahead for the season.

BALTIMORE IS AFTER PENNANT

Fans Expect Fed Team With Clear Field to Give Other Teams in League a Hot Fight

FINISHED WELL LAST YEAR

Knabe Has Steady Pitching Staff Headed by Chief Bender. Infield Considered Good

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Baltimore, Mar. 18.—Baltimore is looking for her Federals to show the rest of Jim Gilmore's teams something this season. They finished well up in the race last year and now the fans are clamoring for a pennant winner. And on paper it seems they stand a very good chance of having their clamorings satisfied. Otto Knabe's crew is looking mighty sweet.

The Baltimore pitchers stack up favorably with any in the league, baruone, and a whole lot better than some. The infield last season was easily one of the best, if not the best in the league, and it will hold its own in the coming pennant fight unless hard luck overtakes it. Otto Knabe is the pivot of the works at second, and he has an able lieutenant in thei nimitable Mickey Doolan on his right. The pair has stood the acid test time and again in the old Philadelphia days and there isn't a team in any league, with the possible exception of Evers and Maranville that has anything on them.

Big Harry Swansina on first showed what he was worth last season. He is a fast, but withal steady man on the first corner and can pickle the pill with steadiness. Jimmy Walsh, who played third bag last season, may have to battle to retain his berth as a regular. Guy Zinn is back on the job, besides Kirkpatrick, and either can be expected to put up a battle. Zinn, it will be remembered, broke his leg early in the season while training, and was out all year. He was counted a nifty third baseman when he came to the Feds from the International League. The Diamond Backs look awfully good in the infield.

Knabe has a steady pitching staff, rather than a flashy one. Chief Bender is going to add a lot of strength to the corps despite vociferous outbursts from Ben Johnson that the old chief is through. Last season was the best the Indian everhad and if he is through, then there are a lot of hurlers holding down berths in the other two leagues who would do well to get into like condition. Any man that can win 17 and lose only 3 games in the American League looks pretty good. Backing up the Chief are Wilhelm, Suggs, Quinn, Conley, Bailey, Smith and Yount. The first three are well known; all were with the club last season and are steady rather than brilliant. Smith flopped around so much between Baltimore and Montreal last season that he is rather an unknown quantity. Bailey and Conley did good work last season, especially towards the latter part. Yount is as yet unproven.

The veteran Jacklitsch will, it is presumed, bear the brunt of the catching as he did last season. He had an able understudy in Russell.

"Hack" Simons and Johnny Duncan are a pair of heavy hitting outfielders, besides being fair infielders. Myer will have one patch, probably although it is possible Knabe may shift Kirkpatrick to the outfield.

The Feds are not going to have any opposition here this season and will have the solid support of the fans. Jack Dunn took his International Birds and went to Richmond. Baltimore believes it is a major league town and the Feds are the nearest thing to a major league it has since the days of the famous old Orioles.

Solid support is going to do a lot in keeping the players pepped up. Anyway, Baltimore is pretty well satisfied with the way things are shaping up.

BODY HANGS ON BARBED WIRE

For Two Months it Sags Between Two Contending Armies and Neither Can Reach it.

TO PERFORM BURIAL RITES

Living Check to Jowl With Dead Men is Part of Trench Life and That is Unavoidable

BY PHIL RADER

(Written for United Press.)

(Copyrighted 1915 by United Press)

London, March 1.—There's a German's body hanging from the barbed wire entanglements in front of the French trenches, which I have just left. For two months this body has been part of my little outlook on the world. There's a pair of nippers in the rotting hands. For some weeks the back was arched upward but recently it has begun to sag. The clothes flap more and more wildly each day as the body slowly shrivels. Nobody from either side has been able to get to that body to bury it. It is buried there in the air on the barbed wire and it will be gradually shot away.

Living check to jowl with dead men; that's the thing that turns you to a beast, but it's a part of trench life that is unavoidable. The first thing that shocks you is to discover that, after a time you are able to watch men writhing in pain with perfect equanimity. My first experience in this happened one day when a young Englishmen in my squad, named Samuel, tried to take a short cut to the rear, and instead of following the maze of trenches, got out into the open right in front of our trench. A German bullet passed through his lungs and we saw him topple only fifteen feet away from us. He writhed and moaned, but our officers wouldn't let us try to get him. The Germans didn't shoot at him any more because they knew they had "landed" him. Our Lieutenant sent to another part of the trenches for a Red Cross man, who came, after about an hour. This Red Cross doctor was a young Swiss named Scheer. He climbed right out of the trench and started towards the writhing figure of Samuels but a bullet passed through his head, and, after flopping about a minute or two Scheer's body stiffened and we could see he was dead. This was 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Whenever we tried to get out to help Samuels the Germans turned a terrific fire our way and we could even hear Samuels groaning. We couldn't get to him. It was not until dark that we could do anything. Then Victor Chapman, of New York, a Harvard man, who was studying architecture in Paris when the war broke out, made a lasso with a piece or rope and before long, he had dragged both bodies into the trench. Samuels was dead.

Experience like this hardened us and finally we got to the place where if a man was killed or wounded, he was blamed for carelessness. When Visconcelles, a merchant of Paris was killed with a rifle bullet through his head while he was peeping about the trench. Lieutenant Francis who conducted the funeral ceremony, said to us, as we stood over the grave:

"This is a lesson for you young men to take to heart. You must not be careless." Think of that as part of a funeral service.'

Most of the divisions of infantrymen who spent 5-day watches in the trenches during the forty-seven consecutive days that I was there with the machine gun squad, buried their dead right in the trenches. Sometimes they scooped out a grave in the side of the trench. Or sometimes they would dig a grave in the floor of the trench. They would not know of course, where other divisions had buried THEIR dead, so it was no uncommon thing to come across a rotting body. Then that part of the trench would be polluted for days until the train had washed away the last traces of the unspeakable mess.

There you are, among the dead. No cave man ever lived so terribly as you do; at least he buried his dead at a distant point moved away from the grave, but we are prisoners with our dead, sleeping, as it were, alongside them, as much prisoners as they. You get to feel that the only difference between yourself and a dead man is that your little bullet hasn't found you yet.

Looking death in the face in this way, a strange custom arose up among men in trenches. There was a Greek in our trench who was a fatalist. He used to say. "I know I'll get it some of these days when my time comes." Now the minute you hear a soldier talking that way you know he will get it. The trench is no place for a fatalist and a fatalist in my experience is not a good soldier, because he will grow impatient over the delay in the coming of death and will, at last, take foolish chances, that no sane man would take. This Greek had a very beautiful knife and all of the men in the trench had their eye on it for in all the trenches it is the custom for the men of a division to divide among themselves all of the belongings of a dead man which will be of use in the trenches. When the little Greek was finally shot through the brain one day, there was a dignified rush for the knife, and we found it was missing. Somebody had stolen it from him, it appears, before he was dead. I had a pair of field glasses which were very expensive and more than one man asked me to promise him that when I was killed the glasses would go to him. Every valuable possession of every man in the trench that can be legitimately claimed for trench service is marked by his comrades. It's just a cold-blooded custom that has grown out of the cold blooded and close acquaintance with death.

If you think that heroism and fine ideals grow in the trenches you are wrong. The life is too beastlike for such human things.

HALL CROWDED FOR ST. PATRICK'S PLAY

"Shaun Aroon" is Produced by Dramatic Club of St. Mary's Parish Wednesday Night.

SCENES LAID IN IRELAND

The production of the comedy-drama, "Shaun Aroon," by the dramatic club of St. Mary's parish at the church hall last night, furnished many laughs for the large crowd that packed the building for the play. The scenes were laid in county Mayo, Ireland, and one of them was in the Shamrock hotel in county Mayo. The play was given in celebration of St. Patrick's day.

Thomas S. Cauley had the stellar part, that of Shaun Aroon, and he essayed the role in fine style. The other parts were well taken and the play was today conceeded to be among the best ever presented by the dramatic society. The proceeds will remain in the treasury of the dramatic club to stage other productions.

Other parts in the play were taken by the following:

SEED OF LEGUME CROPS SELLING

Unpredented Demand For Clover Seed and Falling Off of Timothy Seed Demand Reported.

THERE'S A REASON FOR IT

Unprecedented sales of cloverseed and seed of all other legumes have been reported this year. There has also been a marked falling off in the demand for timothy seed, indicating that farmers are beginning to realize that clover is more valuable as hay, both from a feeding standpoint, and as a beneficial adjunct to soil building.

The bulk of legume seeds sold has been red clover, although there has also been a large demand for Big English clover. The demand for alsike has been curtailed by the fact that it has been very hard for dealers to get seed of good quality.

Early demands for alfalfa seed indicate that the acreage in Rush county will be larger this year.

With the exception of the alsike clover seed, prices are no higher than a year ago, and in most cases rule slightly lower. The quality of alfalfa and red clover seed is unusually good.

Midnight Conference Also Feature in Crisis That May Plunge Italy Into War

DENIAL AT THE EMBASSY

(By United Press.)

Rome, March 18.—Departure of a large number of German tourists for their homes and an important conference of government officials were the outstanding features today in the situation that threatened to plunge Italy into war.

At the German embassy a report that the leaving of the tourists was advised by attaches was specifically denied. Embassy officials said some of the Germans sojourning in Italy for the winter were returning to their homes because spring was approaching and that others unquestionably were influenced by the belligerent attitude of some of the Italian people.

INVESTIGATING BEAGLE MURDER

Decatur County Grand Jury Probing Shooting in Which Frank Beagle Was Killed.

WIDOW GIVES TESTIMONY

The Decatur county grand jury is investigating the murder of Frank Beagle of near Clarksburg, who was shot in Greensburg one Saturday night about a month ago by Sam Coulter. Beagle died a few days after the shooting.

The Greensburg Review says that yesterday Beagle's widow was called and Morton Beagle, a brother of the deceased was examined. John Greer on whose place Beagle was employed, was also called to testify this morning. That the work of the grand jury is far reaching is evidenced in the talk that some of Beagle's relatives outside of the county will be called into the case. Practically the entire neighborhood, where he lived, has been summoned for the investigation and his relatives in other parts of the county are being called.

It was rumored today that a great deal of difficulty was being experienced in locating one witness, who is said to know much about the shooting affair, in which Beagle was fatally injured.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Baptist church will give an exchange, Saturday, March 20th, in the room, formerly occupied by the Vigran Store, in West Second street. 313.

Washington Made Liquors

George Washington was one of the early American manufacturers of liquors, having made both fermented and distilled beverages on his plantation, Mt. Vernon.

Paul Leicester Ford, in his book, "The True George Washington," tells how "in 1798 the profit was 344 pounds, twelve shillings and three-quarter pence.

Washington also realized the value of the brewing industry to agriculture.

Writing to Arthur Young of England, 1791, he said, "I have, myself, raised hops. A brewer told me he had bought the crop of five-eighths acre of hops which turned out 1200 pounds."

I will sell on September 1916, time Sulky and Walking Plows.

These are the best on the market. The reason why I am selling them on long time is that one order from the factory and one from Indianapolis were both shipped in—this is the reason.

The Sulky is what the farmer has been looking for. This is the greatest plow on earth today. Sam Young says it will plow in any kind of dirt. Sam knows a good plow as he has lived on a farm all his life. I don't think Sam knows a plow from a wheelbarrow. There is one thing I do know—Sam Young won't lie.

If you will call at my place I will show you the Best Plow in the World.

DRAMATIC CHAT BY BEAU RIALTO

(By United Press.)

New York, Mar. 18—Isadore Duncan, who spells art with a capital A, has changed her attitude toward America. There was a time, not so many eons ago, that the classical dancer felt annoyed, even peeved, at the attitude of this nation toward her efforts. But now things are changed.

Isadora has begun to think that the poor people of America should have a chance to watch her classic toes in barefoot poses. She and her "school" are going to appear at the Century Opera House this spring at popular prices—a dime for the gallery and so on up to half a dollar for the highest priced seats—for an entire month. She made the announcement the other night at the Metropolitan.

High art stuff reminds one that Granville Barker is going to build another "New Theater." The London producer has been given the commission to revive his old project and the coin, it is said, has been pledged.

Barker plans to give his productions in the great universities this spring. He says he isn't considering the profits—perhaps there won't be any to consider.

"The Peasant Girl" opened her engagement at the Forty-Fourth Street theater the other night, with Emma Trentini singing better than ever before. The opera is another one of those musical things with lots of color, with a plot that begins over on the Blue Danube.

THE BOTTLE CAME BACK.

Virginia, Minn., March 18.— A. B. Coates has just received a bottle filled with the product that made Louisville, Ky., famous. The bottle looked familiar. Investigation proved that it was the very same bottle that he and a party of friend had emptied while dropping down the Nile River. Before throwing the bottle, into the murky water, Coates slipped his card into it and bottle it. Apparently some one picked it up and sent it to Louisville, where it was originally made. The distillery apparently thought it a good enough joke to carry it a little farther.

GOT ABOUT WHAT THEY DESIRED

Representative Jones Says Primary Law Contains Ninety Per Cent of Progressive Demands

IS SURE IT WILL WORK FINE

Feels That Rank and File Have Little to Fear But in Turn Have Gained Much

(By United Press.)

Plymouth, Ind., March 18.—John R. Jones, representative in the 69th General Assembly from this county, declared today that "the progressive Democrats, who worked for a state-wide primary law, have in the present law received at least 90 percent, of what they were asking." Jones was aroused by reports that the primary law was not of the type he had been working for.

"All elective offices except state officers and United States senators are nominated by the primary. As to Governor and United States senator, a preferential vote is taken," said Jones. "If a majority report is received by either of the candidates for Governor or United States senator, as recorded by first and second choice plans, then in that case he shall be declared the nominee. Under the first and second choice plan it is next to impossible for these candidates not to receive a majority vote.

"Pretty good is it not? I am sure it will be much easier to amend and add to the present primary law than it would have been to reject and attempt to pass an entirely new bill in two years.

"We have lost nothing in accepting the primary law and have gained practically all we were asking. What more could we wish?

"All delegates to the state convention are selected under the primary law, their names going on a primary ballot, giving the voters an oportunity of pledging the delegates to stand for certain candidates and such platform measures as in their judgment will serve the best interests of the whole people.

Again, all precinct committeemen are selected by this same primary law; who in turn elect a county chairman; and the various county chairmen of the district select a state chairman. Thus, the next organization comes direct from the rank and file of the party, and must and will be responsible to them.

"I feel the rank and file of the voters have very little to fear under the present primary law; but in turn have gained much."

NEW TEXAS LABOR LAW.

(By United Press.)

Austin, Texas, March 16.—A 54-hour week bill for women workers, certain to become a law at this session of the legislature, passed the senate with women in cotton and woolen mills excluded from its protection. Senator Bee, author of the measure, felt constrained to apologize for the fact that it excluded these workers. He said that he had consented to it only because fourteen of his colleagues told him they would not vote for it if the bill did not exclude textile workers.

RUSH FOR THE JITNEYS.

Topeka, O., Mar. 16—The all popular jitney bus threatens to become more popular in Toledo.

Jitney bus owners yelled: "All aboard to the explosion."

Every jitney bus did a rushing business.

BOUNDARY WILL NOT CAUSE WAR

If England and United States Ever Get into Trouble it Will Not be Over Border Line

TRIBUNAL HANDLES DISPUTES

Commission Created by Treaty in 1909 Has Adjusted Many Difficulties Satisfactory to all

BY BURTON K. STANDISH
(Written for United Press.)

Washington, Mar. 17.—If the United States ever has trouble with Great Britain it will not grow out of the fact that for four thousand miles or so the United States touches one of Great Britain's colonies, the Dominion of Canada. So thinks U. S. Senator Wesley L. Jones. While ordinarily boundary lines are the surest source of war-making the United States—and likewise England—is protected in that instance by a buffer that it proving its value Senator Jones thinks. The buffer is the International Joint Commission, created by the treaty of 1909, to settle all boundary questions then pending and "to make provision for the adjustment and settlement of all such questions as may hereafter arise."

This commission is composed of: Obadian Gardner, of Maine, James M. Tawney of Minnesota, and R. B. Glenn of North Carolian, for the United States; Henry A. Powell, K. C., New Brunswick, Charles A. Magrath, Ontario, and P. B. Mignault, K. C., Quebec, for Canada.

Although organization was not effected until January 10, 1912, owing to the delay in the naming of his appointees by the King of England, the commission already has adjusted more difficulties, Senator Jones says than were settled through the diplomatic agencies of the two countries since the beginning of this government. It has still others to dispose of.

"Its work is a tribute to genius and progressive international statesmanship of the two great English-speaking nations of the world," said Senator Jones in discussing the topic. "It must be apparent to anyone that with a boundary between two countries almost 4,000 miles separate and distinct government, whose commercial, financial and industrial relations are necessarily and intimately related, and who are the owners in common of a vast property which marks almost one-half of that boundary, conflict of interest will arise in the future as in the past. Between no two countriese in the world is there a boundary of such tribunal extent.

"Diplomacy does not afford the people of two nations, whose rights and interests are involved in any international controversy, the opportunity to appear face to face to have their controversies determined upon sworn testimony and according to the principles of law. The necessity therefore for the existence of this commission or some similar tribunal will exist therefore as long as exists the necessity for court either in the United States or Canada. This is so because of the exercise of their common right to the use of the water which marks the boundary between them.

"The treaty between the United States and Great Britain creating this international court of justice makes the most advanced step yet taken by any two nations in the history of the world—not only for the settlement of international questions, but for the settlement of questions of less consequence between the people of both nations.

"There are many arbitrations between the U. S. and other nations. Doubtless there are many between other nations of the world, but there are none between any other two that creates a tribunal composed of citizens of both nations for the settlement of international questions between their governments, or between their people. This commission therefore, charged with the duty and having the power practically to work out the great problem of whether or not the theory of international peace through arbitration can or cannot be made a success, should have the hearty support of both governments.

"In my judgment this tribunal furnishes an example to the world."

REMARKABLE CURE IN RUSHVILLE

Letter Published Here Shows Local Success of Scientific Remedy.

Mr. Harrison Levi of 931 North Sexton street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I suffered with Muscular and Sciatic Rheumatism and of the joints for a long time. My left arm and hand would lose all feeling and would feel like they were paralyzed. I couldn't life my arm or use it at all and I was in a terrible condition. My kidneys and bladder were in a very bad condition also. I took lots of medicine and doctored for a long time. For a while I thought I had found a cure and my hopes were high but just to be disappointed as the trouble returned worse than ever. Finally my attention was called to Lloyd's Kidney & Rheumatism Tablets, the new scientific prescription and after taking them a few weeks I was positive that I had at last found a cure. I do not hesitate to say that Lloyd's cured me of a long-standing case and I am glad to answer all questions that other sufferers may wish to ask. Lloyd's is a wonderful prescription."

(By United Press.)

Washington, Mar. 18.—Farmers of the south are urged to cultivate beans and peas and raise dairy cattle as a substitute for cotton in a statement issued by the Public Health Service. It declares that by this means southern farmers will not only profit financially but will aid the fight on pallagra, which has been prevalent in the south.

"By using regularly an abundance of fresh milk, eggs, fresh lean meat, beans and peas, not only may pallagra be cured when the disease is not too far advanced, but prevented," the Public Health Service statement says. "This actually happened in at least one institution where, in 1913, 75 cases of pallagra occured. As a result of a change of diet, not a single case is known to have developed this year."

"This fact," the statement continues, "suggests the advisability of farmers in the south cultivating beans and peas and raising dairy cattle, in stead of cotton, at a time when the market for the latter abroad has been all but destroyed by foreign wars."

Twenty percent of our cotton seed meal was consumed last season by Germany. Denmark, Switzerland, and other European countries. The present war, however, has abolished the German consumption of this product. This fact, together with the large cotton crop produced this year says the Department of Agriculture has thrown an excess of cotton seed products on the home market, reducing the average price of cotton seed meal and hulls 20 to 25 percent The meal shipped to Europe last year would feed 400,000 head of mature cattle for 12 months. As a result of the large supply on hand, the department urges extensive use of cotton seed meal for cattle feeding.

Two natural causes this year have apparently prevented a general outbreak of that dangerous pest, the green bug, says the Department of Agriculture. Present weather conditions are most favorable for such an outbreak and the pest appeared some time ago in volunteer oats in South Carolina.

However, one of the department's investigators has been going over the grain fields in Texas where the pest usually first makes its appearance whenever there is a widespread invasion. As aresult, the entomologists see no possibility of an outbreak in the southwest in the coming spring. The two natural causes which seem to have prevented an outbreak this season are:

First: Acertain parasite developing on another pest, namely, the oat aphis, occured in such numbers as to overwhelm the green bug as well as the oat aphis. This is an unusual occurrance which previously has never been noticed by the department's investigators.

Second: Last fall's dry weather in the southwest hindered the growth of the voluntary grain in the fields so that almost none came up. The green bug, therefore, had little opportunity to develop until sown grain gave him a chance.

In the foot and mouth disease regulations which became effective Feb. 1, the federal authorities have changed the provisions of the quarantine in one important respect. Live stock from both exposed and modified areas can no longer be shipped to points in free area. Formerly it was possible to do this for the purpose of immediate slaughter from modified areas, and after federal certification and inspection, from exposed areas as well.

The change was determined upon because of the fact that cattle suffering with the disease were found to have been shipped from Chicago to Philadelphia, Richmond. Under the regulations now in force, cattle may only be shipped from the quarantined areas for the purpose of immediate slaughter and then only to points that are themselves in quarantined sections.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out Kidneys—Drink plenty water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

MUNICIPAL PLANT SUCCESS.

Cleveland, O., Mar., 18.—Operating against the private owned corporation at lower rates, Cleveland's municipal electric light plan earned a net profit of $48,675 in 1914, according to figures just compiled by Light Commissioner Ballard. The municipal plant serves 10,000 customers and is adding rapidly to this number. Its rate is three cents per kilowatt hour. The private owned corporation charges from five to ten cents, guaged on the amount used by the consumer.

HEARING AT DALLAS.

Dallas, Texas, March 18.—Land tenantry and the distribution of labor during and following the cotton picking and other harvests in the Southwest will be investigated by the United States Commission on Industrial Relations at a series of public hearings opening here today. There are more rent paying farmers in Texas than the farm-owning kind and the problem of landlords and tenant, especially of absentee landlordism, have become the leading political and economic issues in the State.

BUFFALO GOING AFTER PENNANT

Larry Schlafly and His Crew Are Going to Put Up Battle for the Gilmore Circuit Flag

TEAM LOOKS GOOD ON PAPER

Pitching Staff Headed by Russel Ford and Infield is Led by the Great Hal Chase

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Buffalo, Mar. 18.—Larry Schlafly and his crew of battlin' Buffeds are going to put in a mighty stiff bid for Jim Gilmore's pennant this season. On paper they look about as strong as any club in the league and should if the dope holds good, be up there biting the leaders' heels all the way. Buffalo is certainly pulling for them to perform thusly and is rather expecting it.

The team was a good one last year —not a pennant winner, but up their battling the pace setters, and it has been strengthened quite a bit during the winters' raiding.

A great deal of the Buffeds' chances for the pennant rests on Russell Ford, one time Yankee, and the best flinger in the third league last season. Ford's comeback was one of the features of the late lamented 1914. He bowled 'em over right and left, winning 21 and losing only six. Hugh Bedient was added to the staff during the winter. He is a good pitcher; no one can deny that, not even Belligerent Byron Bancroft Johnson from whose backyard he hurdled. These two, in form are going to prove mighty strong, arguments against elevated batting averages.

Another pitcher whom Schlafly is expecting much of is Howard Ehmke a coast youngster. The boy comes with a mighty sweet record for his first year as a professional. His first shot at league ball last season was with Los Angeles and he pitched forty games, winning 21 and losing 19. Not exactly rotten for a rookie Fred Anderson, Gene Krapp, Heine Schultz, were all with the Buffeds last year and did creditable work. Completing the staff are Robert Brown and Courtneay Woodman, two recruits.

Nick Allen and Walter Blair, both with the club last season, form the receiving corps. The Buffeds look a little weak in this department as neither man got above .240 in the batting marks last season.

Schlafly looks pretty snugly fortified in the infield and outfield. On first base he has the incomparable Hal Chase. The Prince doesn't need any of this "we have with us tonight" stuff to introduce him. Suffice it to say he stung the Federals' ball last season for .354 and picked 'em off around the corner for a fielding total of .981.

Bill Louden, who played second bag last season, will undoubtedly fill in again. He is steady with the bat, hanging up a .313 mark last season. For third there are Bill Roach, probably, and Smith. Roach leaped from the Buffalo Internationals, then did a Walter Johnson back, so his case is sort of up in the air. Engle will play short, it is presumed.

The addition of Jack Dalton, late of the Dodgers, to the outfield, is going to make it compare favorably with any in the league. "Curse-you-Jack" was considered easily one of the best outfielders in the National League last season, batting .319 and he should increase that mark, in the Federal circuit. Dalton probably will take the center field. Jow side of him and Charley McDonald Agler all around man, will be on one or the other. McDonald, by the way is no slouch with the bludgeon, either He stung the ball for .319 last season.

All told, Buffalo fans are settling back prepared to watch a rattlin' good fight for the pennant, with fair chance of seeing their favorite romp home in the lead—or very close thereabout.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

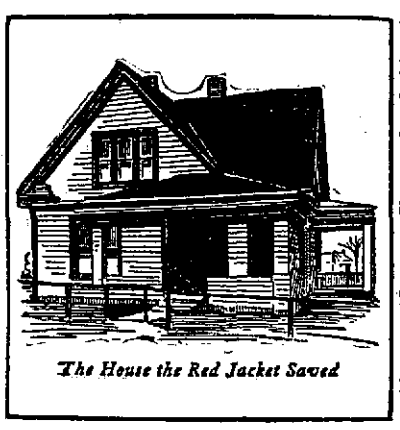

Common garden Sage and Suiphur makes streaked, faded or gray hair dark and glossy at once.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

$3000.00 FIRE PREVENTED

The House the Red Jacket Saved
Read This Letter:
"Several years ago I called on Lane & Evans to buy a pump and they almost forced me to buy one of your Fig. 28 Red Jacket Double-Acting Force Pumps and fifty feet of hose when I only intended to buy a cheap set length pump. Mr. Lane put up such strong argument on "fire protection" that I followed his advice and bought the Fig. 28, little thinking that it would be of any service to me in that respect.
Shortly after the pump was installed, my barn caught fire and had it not been for this pump and hose and the thoughtfulness of Mrs. Barnett, my barn, house and all buildings on the place would have been destroyed."

We Have Our Spring Buggies In!
and they are ready for your inspection and we extend you an invitation to call and look them over this week as it will be to your interest to make your selection between now and the closing day of our Opening. We will explain why when you come in. We have the finest buggies ever placed on a sample floor and we want you to look them over. If you need a Storm Buggy this is the correct place to get what you want. We are not selling them at a reduction of $25.00, however, but we are selling them just the same as we have all season at $100.00. We have always said that our price was just as low at any time as the cut prices of our competitors, and we are always ready to do as we advertise. When a merchant advertises he has made a cut of $25.00 on a buggy use a little common sense in forming an opinion about this like the fellow that was in a state of Coma, and his friends thought he was dead, but before time to bury him he showed signs of life. When he rallied enough to talk his friends asked him how it seemed to be dead. "Dead," he exclaimed, "I knew all the time what was going on and I knew I wasn't dead, too, because my feet were cold and I was hungry and I knew that if I was in heaven I wouldn't be hungry and if I was in the other place my feet wouldn't be cold. Now if you will study out 99 per cent of the cut price argument you will see just about as much to them as there is in this little story. In other words, somebody has to be the goat, and the man that takes $25.00 off of a buggy during a sale must have a lot on when he is selling regular. Buy your buggies where the price is always the same and as low as any cut price sale ever advertised in Rush County. Let the other fellow be the goat this time.
REMEMBER OUR OPENING MARCH 12-13 AND BE SURE AND COME.

No Conscription In England But There Is Some Persuasion

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD

London, Mar. 1.—(By Mail to New York)—There is no conscription in England. But there is a form of Persuasion, that is just as effective, by which Lord Kitchener's army has in part, been made up.

The big landowners of England are among the most effective recruiters that England has today. There are parts of the little island of England where one may stand on a high hill and look about him with field glasses and know that every inch of land, as far as he can see, is owned by one man. On this land are small villages. These villages have their homes, their business street, their public libraries, their hotels and railroad stations and postoffices, but every institution in the village and every person exists in that district by permission of the duke or lord who owns the land. To these persons in such villages the good will of the landowner is of more importance than the good will of the king. "His grace," as the tenants call him, possesses an almost unlimited power over the lives and actions of the tenants.

"His grace," in one of these small towns, has only to publicly express his wish that every able bodied young man in the place shall enlist and after that wish is expressed woe betide the young man, who, several weeks later, without good reason, is still found within the village precincts. The old men and the women revile him and the girls of the village "cut him" dead. There is only one thing for him to do and that is to go to war.

The village of Arundel, on the estate of the Duke of Norfolk, who owns 49,000 acres in the south of England, is an example of the small English town where young men are not to be seen. What inducemre the Duke of Norfolk used in helping his king to secure recruits is not known. But the fact remains that Arundel has contributed all of its young men, who could possibly get away, to the army.

As you pass through the street of Arundel you see, hanging in the windows of the cottages, large and gaily colored cards bearing the name of the man in that household who have gone to war. It is not unusual to see three or four cards in the window of a little home.

"Who are those cards for?" I asked a woman standing at the the door of her cottage.

"My two sons and my husband," she said, proudly. "I haven't any more and they're all at the front. Those cards are all I've got to show that any men ever lived in this this house."

In the great million-dollar cathedral of the town, which the duke built, with his own money, there were eighteen black-bordered cards on the bulletin boards, bearing the names of men who have fallen in battle. And the congregation of the church numbers only 1,000, a large majority of them being women. There are few churches in England that can show a record like that of the Duke of Norfolk's cathedral.

The verger of the church tells visitors:

"Almost all the young men have gone to war. "I've got three sons and two grandsons serving."

This "persuasion" of the English landowners may indicate a condition bordering on feudalism but the young men march off singing and happy and their families remain, proud and full of assurance that they are doing their duty by "his grace."

Plenty of members of parliament are mad at English government. How many there are of these would-be insurgents and how mad they are cannot be learned; the fog of war hides these facts. Every now and then some member of the insurgent part gets up in parliament and says he thinks that parliament ought to be taken into the confidence of the leaders.

Everybody says, "How interesting!" the mad member sits down again and that ends it.

But just transfer the situation to Washington and see whether our congressmen and senators wouldn't be mad, too, under the circumstances. Suppose the United States were at war with some foreign nation and suppose that:

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and Speaker Champ Clark and all the democratic leaders shut up as tight as clams and wouldn't tell anybody in congress what they were doing. And suppose that.

The President and Bryan and Clark called to their councils Senator Boise Penrose, and Uncle Joe Cannon and Elihu Root and all the leaders of the Republican "opposition" and planned with them what should be done but still refused to tell the democratic members of parliament what was doing. And suppose that:

The democratic members of congress called Bryan and Daniels and Garrison before them demanding information about what the state department and the navy and the army were doing and these gentleman said, in effect:

"We can't tell you what we're doing. It wouldn't be wise."

Wouldn't congress be mad?

And suppose that Wilson was able to keep the lid down on the angry speech of all the democrats and Boise Penrose and Uncle Joe Cannon helped him, wouldn't congress be still madder?

That's exactly the situation of the members of the English parliament. Both the liberals, who in our country would be democrats and unionists, who would be members of the Republican party, have this anger.

And then suppose, on top of all of this, the general election was due within a few weeks and Wilson and Penrose get together and decided that congress must vote to postpone the election until after the war. And suppose congress had to follow their orders.

Wouldn't congress believe that everything that Gen. Sherman had said about war was true?

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

They Are Closely Observing Public Health Conditions.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

According to this it would seem that a medicine for the kidneys, possessing real healing and curative properties, would be a blessing to thousands.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., who prepare Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the well known kidney, liver and bladder remedy, claim that judging from evidence received from druggists everywhere, who are constantly in touch with their customers, and also indisputable proof in the form of grateful testimonial letters from thousands of reliable citizens, this preparation is remarkably successful in sickness caused by kidney and bladder troubles. Every interesting statement they receive regarding Swamp-Root is investigated and no testimonial is published unless the party who sends it is reported of good character. They have on file many sworn statements of recoveries in the most distressing cases. They state that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is mild and gentle in its action and its healing influence is soon noticed in most cases.

Swamp-Root is purely an herbal compound and Dr. Kilmer & Co., advise all readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes—50c and $1.00. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention The Daily Republican.

TELLS OF CUTTING OFF HIS OWN HAND

In Suit for Damaged Plaintiff Related How he Was Caught in Cogs and Used Pen Knife

$35,000 IS AMOUNT DEMANDED

(By United Press.)

Denver, Mar. 18.—How he cut off his own hand at the wrist with a penknife, after being caught in the cogs of an electric pump was told here by Wallace E. Rittenhouse, who is suing the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company for $35,000 damages.

Rittenhouse claimed that the place where the electric pump was located was badly lighted. It was his duty to oil the pump. He slipped on a car wheel, catching in the gear wheel of the pump. Rittenhouse said he dropped his miner's candle and was left in total darkness. Held fast in the machinery, he struck a match with his free hand, re-lighted his candle, and drawing his knife, severed his ar mat the wrist in order to free himself. He claims he then had to walk about 1,000 feet to reach aid.

MAY INVESTIGATE ALLEGED FRAUDS

Rumors Heard Following Announcement That Marion County Grand Jury Will Meet

IN JUDGE COLLINS' COURT

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, March 18.—The Marion county grand jury was expected to report today or tomorrow, and it was hinted here and there that a sensation might be expected. Indictments returned by this grand jury receive consideration in the Marion county criminal court, of which James A. Collins is judge.

Judge Collins was the one aimed at by the Elsner Change of venue bill in the recent legislature. This bill has otherwise been called the "felons' relief bill." It would have forced a judge to grant change of venue to another county in criminal cases. The bill passed the senate unamended, but in the house so much opposition arose that its friends amended it to apply only to men facing charges growing out of alleged election corruption.

Had the bill become a law, any one indicted by the Marion county grand jury on election fraud charges might easily have escaped trial under Judge Collins. As it is, any indicted person probably will be tried by Collins.

The rumor was that prominent politicians would be indicted and that the charges would have to do with alleged election frauds.
